ASK TV GUIDE

Q I've heard that Julia Louis-Dreyfus (Seinfeld) is married to a comedian. True? And if so, who?
—J.E., Huntington Station, NY

A She's been married to actor-writer-producer Brad Hall since 1987. The couple appeared together on "Saturday Night Live" in 1982 and '83; later, Hall was a writer-producer for CBS's "Brooklyn Bridge." They have a son, Henry, who was born in 1992.

Q On Full House, there was a daughter named D.J., which is also the name of the son on Roseanne. What do their initials stand for? —L.E., Kew Gardens, NY

A Hope you haven't been staying up nights worrying about this. The "Full House" daughter was Donna Jo; the son on "Roseanne" is David Jacob.

NBC/GLOBE PHOTOS

Q Is it true that Faith Ford (Murphy Brown) started on a daytime soap? —B.P., Cannelton, W.Va.

A Ford played Julia Shearer on "Another World" from 1983 to '84. Incidentally, she wasn't the first to play that role: Kyra Sedgwick ("Singles") was, from '82 to '83. Here's Ford from 12 years ago.

In Toon with the Times

If you haven't yet heard "Colors of the Wind" from "Pocahontas," take it from Vanessa Williams—you will. "This is going to be a song like 'Beauty and the Beast' and 'A Whole New World,' where you might have to go to another planet to avoid it," laughs the singer/actress, who croons the toon tune during the film's credits as well as on the ABC special "Disney's Pocahontas... The Musical Tradition Continues" (June 20). "I jumped at the opportunity: Not only was I able to sing in a film my kids would love to watch, but they also got a chance to act in the video. I just finished doing Kiss of the Spider Woman on Broadway, so I can't wait to get back in my singing groove again." Williams won't have long to wait: Next month she films "Bye Bye Birdie" with Jason Alexander, a fall ABC musical. In the meantime, she's completing the Sidney Sheldon miniseries "Nothing Lasts Forever" for CBS. "I play Dr. Kat Hunter, who's cut off from her emotions, speaks her mind, and has an affair with Chris Noth [late of Law & Order]," she says. "The show is sex, disaster, and drama. It's fun in the way that makes people want to watch miniseries."

Williams: In the Kat-bird seat.

BOB D'AMICO/ABC

Father Notes Best

To mark Father's Day, we reveal the unique genesis of ABC's summer sitcom Bringing Up Jack, starring stand-up comic Jack Gallagher. Seems that when Gallagher's wife, Jean, gave birth to their son, Declan, Gallagher began writing letters to the lad to give him when he turned 30: "It's something I wish my dad had done, so I wouldn't have thought he was a jerk when really he was being a good guy," he explains. The letters became Gallagher's stage show Letters to Declan, which in turn inspired Bringing Up Jack. But a network sitcom is a bigger gig than a one-man play. "It's kind of scary," Gallagher admits. "The pressure is on. If it does well, I don't know what I'll do. If it doesn't...I can always blame the producers."

Wearing Green and Feeling Blue

On St. Patrick's Day she copped the newest role on NYPD Blue: alcoholic cop Diane Russell. Was it the luck of the Irish for Kim Delaney? "I had green underwear on," she admits, but adds, "I think the fact that I had worked before with Jimmy Smits, on a TV-movie called 'The Broken Cord,' got me the part." Of course, she didn't get to keep her underwear on for long; by her second episode, she was already in one of Blue's trademark nude scenes. But it's all just part of a rise to fame that was interrupted only briefly when Delaney left the series Tour of Duty to have a child. For instance, she's in "Darkman II," debuting on video next month. Has stardom changed her life? "While I'm doing this interview, I'm also doing my laundry," sighs the single mom. "I can't remember anything lately that comes close to a social life."

TORI WOLFF

Delaney: Working mom.*

Pointers for Pointman

As he waits to see if more episodes of his syndicated series, Pointman, are ordered, Jack Scalia is philosophical: "I'm only responsible for interpreting the material. If the show doesn't work, I'll get up, dust myself off, and get back in line." He credits Rock Hudson and Suzanne Pleshette (his costars in the miniseries "The Star Maker") for his career credos: Hudson advised him "not to be a jerk on the set or you'll be surrounded by 120 jerks"; Pleshette told him, "Be prepared, be on time, make friends with everybody, and have fun." Which Scalia does in Pointman, as an ex-con turned "reluctant hero." "He believes in Boy Scout things. He's the kind of guy I'd like to know."

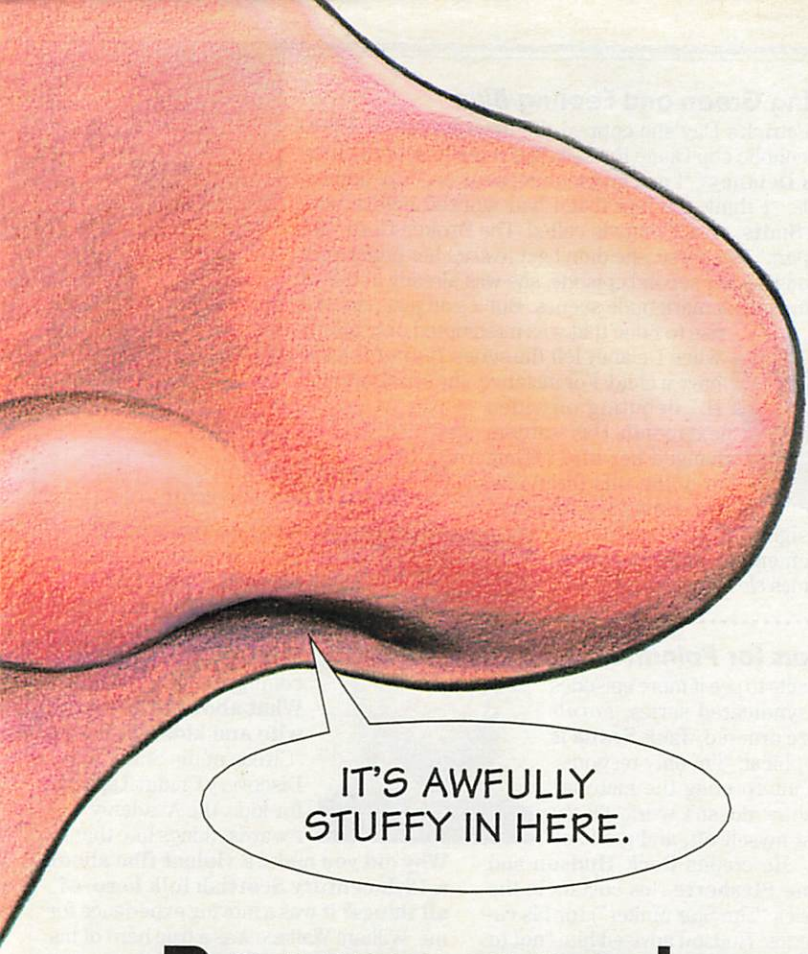
What I Watch

Mel Gibson
"Braveheart" star/director

GREG GORMAN/GAMMA LIAISON

What do you watch? I don't have time to watch a lot of TV; sometimes I'll catch a boxing match. But I do think some of the best new actors today are coming out of television. What about with your wife and kids? We'll see "Circus of the Stars" or a Discovery Channel special for kids, the Academy Awards, things like that. Why did you make a violent film about a 13th-century Scottish folk hero, of all things? It was a moving experience for me. William Wallace was a true hero of his times. I tried to cut down on violence that really happened, that showed how over-the-top his enemies were in acts of terror. How was wearing kilts? Free. They're very comfortable and they look all right. Candice Bergen is remaking "Tim," a film in which you starred in 1979, for TV. Any thoughts? Yeah, I'm stunned. It makes me feel like I'm really getting old. As the voice of Capt. John Smith in Disney's "Pocahontas," you sing a few songs. What should audiences expect? If they really want to hear how I sing, they should hear me in the shower!



Do you need an allergy medicine that unstuffs your nose?

Ask your doctor about new FLONASE from Glaxo: It relieves sneezing and itchy, runny nose – and your stuffy nose as well.

FLONASE works where you need it, in your nose. It's a new nasal spray that relieves nasal symptoms for sufferers of seasonal nasal allergies.

You can take FLONASE once a day. FLONASE unstuffs your nose for a full 24 hours.

FLONASE won't put you to sleep and it won't keep you awake. FLONASE doesn't subject you to the drowsiness, sleeplessness, or nervousness associated with some antihistamines and decongestants.

FLONASE is not addictive. FLONASE is comfortable to use.

The most common side effects occurred in fewer than 7 of 100 people (comparable to placebo). These included nasal burning, nosebleeds, headache, and sore throat.

FLONASE is a prescription drug, and its effectiveness depends on regular use. FLONASE is not used to treat children under age 12.

Only your doctor or health care professional can determine the best treatment option for you. No advertisement can provide all the information needed to prescribe a drug.

FLONASE™ NASAL SPRAY, 0.05%

Allergy relief, right under your nose.

Flonase™
(fluticasone propionate)
Nasal Spray, 0.05% w/w

BRIEF SUMMARY

For Intranasal Use Only.

SHAKE GENTLY BEFORE USE.

The following is a brief summary only. Before prescribing, see complete prescribing information in Flonase™ Nasal Spray product labeling.

CONTRAINDICATIONS: Flonase™ Nasal Spray is contraindicated in patients with a hypersensitivity to any of its ingredients.

WARNINGS: The replacement of a systemic glucocorticoid with a topical glucocorticoid can be accompanied by signs of adrenal insufficiency, and in addition some patients may experience symptoms of withdrawal, e.g., joint and/or muscular pain, lassitude, and depression. Patients previously treated for prolonged periods with systemic glucocorticoids and transferred to topical glucocorticoids should be carefully monitored for acute adrenal insufficiency in response to stress. In those patients who have asthma or other clinical conditions requiring long-term systemic glucocorticoid treatment, too rapid a decrease in systemic glucocorticoids may cause a severe exacerbation of their symptoms.

The use of Flonase™ Nasal Spray with alternate-day systemic prednisone could increase the likelihood of hypothalamic-pituitary-adrenal (HPA) suppression compared with a therapeutic dose of either one alone. Therefore, Flonase Nasal Spray should be used with caution in patients already receiving alternate-day prednisone treatment for any disease. In addition, the concomitant use of Flonase Nasal Spray with other inhaled glucocorticoids could increase the risk of signs or symptoms of hypercorticism and/or suppression of the HPA axis.

Patients who are on immunosuppressant drugs are more susceptible to infections than healthy individuals. Chickenpox and measles, for example, can have a more serious or even fatal course in patients on immunosuppressant doses of corticosteroids. In such patients who have not had these diseases, particular care should be taken to avoid exposure. How the dose, route, and duration of corticosteroid administration affects the risk of developing a disseminated infection is not known. The contribution of the underlying disease and/or prior corticosteroid treatment to the risk is also not known. If exposed to chickenpox, prophylaxis with varicella zoster immune globulin (VZIG) may be indicated. If exposed to measles, prophylaxis with pooled intramuscular immunoglobulin (IG) may be indicated. (See the respective package inserts for complete VZIG and IG prescribing information). If chickenpox develops, treatment with antiviral agents may be considered.

PRECAUTIONS:

General: Rarely, immediate hypersensitivity reactions or contact dermatitis may occur after the intranasal administration of fluticasone propionate. Rare instances of wheezing, nasal septum perforation, cataracts, glaucoma, and increased intraocular pressure have been reported following the intranasal application of glucocorticoids.

Use of excessive doses of glucocorticoids may lead to signs or symptoms of hypercorticism, suppression of HPA function, and/or suppression of growth in children or teenagers. Knemometry studies in asthmatic children on orally inhaled glucocorticoids showed inhibitory effects on short-term growth rate. The relationship between short-term changes in lower leg growth and long-term effects on growth is unclear at this time. Physicians should closely follow the growth of adolescents taking glucocorticoids, by any route, and weigh the benefits of glucocorticoid therapy against the possibility of growth suppression if an adolescent's growth appears slowed.

Although systemic effects have been minimal with recommended doses of Flonase™ Nasal Spray, potential risk increases with larger doses. Therefore, larger than recommended doses of Flonase Nasal Spray should be avoided.

When used at larger doses, systemic glucocorticoid effects such as hypercorticism and adrenal suppression may appear. If such changes occur, the dosage of Flonase Nasal Spray should be discontinued slowly consistent with accepted procedures for discontinuing oral glucocorticoid therapy.

In clinical studies with fluticasone propionate administered intranasally, the development of localized infections of the nose and pharynx with Candida albicans has occurred only rarely. When such an infection develops, it may require treatment with appropriate local therapy and discontinuation of treatment with Flonase Nasal Spray. Patients using Flonase Nasal Spray over several months or longer should be examined periodically for evidence of Candida infection or other signs of adverse effects on the nasal mucosa.

Flonase Nasal Spray should be used with caution, if at all, in patients with active or quiescent tuberculous infections; untreated fungal, bacterial, or systemic viral infections; or ocular herpes simplex.

Because of the inhibitory effect of glucocorticoids on wound healing, patients who have experienced recent nasal septal ulcers, nasal surgery, or nasal trauma should not use a nasal glucocorticoid until healing has occurred.

Information for Patients: Patients being treated with Flonase Nasal Spray should receive the following information and instructions. This information is intended to aid them in the safe and effective use of this medication. It is not a disclosure of all possible adverse or intended effects.

Patients should be warned to avoid exposure to chickenpox or measles and, if exposed, to consult their physician without delay.

Patients should use Flonase Nasal Spray at regular intervals as directed since its effectiveness depends on its regular use. A decrease in nasal symptoms may occur as soon as 12 hours after starting therapy with Flonase Nasal Spray. Results in several clinical trials indicate statistically significant improvement within the first day or two of treatment; however, the full benefit of Flonase Nasal Spray may not be achieved until treatment has been administered for several days. The patient should not increase the prescribed dosage but should contact the physician if symptoms do not improve or if the condition worsens. For the proper use of the nasal spray and to attain maximum improvement, the patient should read and follow carefully the patient's instructions accompanying the product.

Carcinogenesis, Mutagenesis, Impairment of Fertility: Fluticasone propionate demonstrated no tumorigenic potential in studies of oral doses up to 1.0 mg/kg (3 mg/m^2 as calculated on a surface area basis) for 78 weeks in the mouse or inhalation of up to 57 mcg/kg (336 mcg/m^2) for 104 weeks in the rat.

Fluticasone propionate did not induce gene mutation in prokaryotic or eukaryotic cells in vitro. No significant clastogenic effect was seen in cultured human peripheral lymphocytes in vitro or in the mouse micronucleus test when administered at high doses by the oral or subcutaneous routes. Furthermore, the compound did not delay erythroblast division in bone marrow.

No evidence of impairment of fertility was observed in reproductive studies conducted in rats dosed subcutaneously with doses up to 50 mcg/kg (295 mcg/m^2) in males and females. However, prostate weight was significantly reduced in rats.

Pregnancy: Teratogenic Effects: Pregnancy Category C: Subcutaneous studies in the mouse and rat at 45 and 100 mcg/kg, respectively (135 and 590 mcg/m^2, respectively, as calculated on a surface area basis), revealed fetal toxicity characteristic of potent glucocorticoid compounds, including embryonic growth retardation, omphalocele, cleft palate, and retarded cranial ossification.

In the rabbit, fetal weight reduction and cleft palate were observed following subcutaneous doses of 4 mcg/kg (48 mcg/m^2).

However, following oral administration of up to 300 mcg/kg (3.6 mg/m^2) of fluticasone propionate to the rabbit, there were no maternal effects nor increased incidence of external, visceral, or skeletal fetal defects. No fluticasone propionate was detected in the plasma in this study, consistent with the established low bioavailability following oral administration (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY section of the full prescribing information).

Less than 0.008% of the dose crosses the placenta following oral administration to rats (100 mcg/kg, 590 mcg/m^2) or rabbits (300 mcg/kg, 3.6 mg/m^2).

There are no adequate and well-controlled studies in pregnant women. Fluticasone propionate should be used during pregnancy only if the potential benefit justifies the potential risk to the fetus. Experience with oral glucocorticoids since their introduction in pharmacologic, as opposed to physiologic, doses suggests that rodents are more prone to teratogenic effects from glucocorticoids than humans. In addition, because there is a natural increase in glucocorticoid production during pregnancy, most women will require a lower exogenous glucocorticoid dose and many will not need glucocorticoid treatment during pregnancy.

Nursing Mothers: It is not known whether fluticasone propionate is excreted in human breast milk. Subcutaneous administration of tritiated drug to lactating rats (10 mcg/kg, 59 mcg/m^2) resulted in measurable radioactivity in both plasma and milk. Because other glucocorticoids are excreted in human milk, caution should be exercised when Flonase Nasal Spray is administered to a nursing woman.

Pediatric Use: The safety and effectiveness of Flonase Nasal Spray in children below 12 years of age have not been established. Oral glucocorticoids have been shown to cause growth suppression in children and teenagers with extended use. If a child or teenager on any glucocorticoid appears to have growth suppression, the possibility that they are particularly sensitive to this effect of glucocorticoids should be considered (see PRECAUTIONS).

Geriatric Use: A limited number of patients above 60 years of age (n=132) have been treated with Flonase Nasal Spray in US and non-US clinical trials. While the number of patients is too small to permit separate analysis of efficacy and safety, the adverse reactions reported in this population were similar to those reported by younger patients.

ADVERSE REACTIONS: In controlled US studies, 2,427 patients received treatment with intranasal fluticasone propionate. In general, adverse reactions in clinical studies have been primarily associated with irritation of the nasal mucous membranes and the adverse reactions were reported with approximately the same frequency by patients treated with the vehicle itself. The complaints did not usually interfere with treatment. Less than 2% of patients in clinical trials discontinued because of adverse events; this rate was similar for vehicle and active comparators.

Systemic glucocorticoid side effects were not reported during controlled clinical studies up to 6 months duration with Flonase™ Nasal Spray. If recommended doses are exceeded, however, or if individuals are particularly sensitive or if in conjunction with systemically administered glucocorticoids, symptoms of hypercorticism, e.g., Cushing's syndrome, could occur.

The following incidence of common adverse reactions is based upon seven controlled clinical trials in which 536 patients (57 girls and 108 boys aged 4 to 11 years, 137 female and 234 male adolescents and adults) were treated with Flonase Nasal Spray 200 mcg once daily over 2 to 4 weeks and two controlled clinical trials in which 246 patients (119 female and 127 male adolescents and adults) were treated with Flonase Nasal Spray 200 mcg once daily over 6 months.

Incidence Greater than 1% (Causal Relationship Possible): Respiratory: Epistaxis, nasal burning (incidence 3% to 6%); blood in nasal mucus, pharyngitis, nasal irritation (incidence 1% to 3%).

Neurological: Headache (incidence 1% to 3%).

Incidence Less than 1% (Causal Relationship Possible): Respiratory: Sneezing, runny nose, nasal dryness, sinusitis, nasal congestion, bronchitis, nasal ulcer, nasal septum excoriation.

Neurological: Dizziness.

Special Senses: Eye disorder, unpleasant taste.

Digestive: Nausea and vomiting, xerostomia.

Skin and Appendages: Urticaria.

OVERDOSAGE: There are no data available on the effects of acute or chronic overdosage with Flonase™ Nasal Spray. Intranasal administration of 2 mg (10 times the recommended dose) of fluticasone propionate twice daily for 7 days to healthy human volunteers was well tolerated. Single oral doses up to 16 mg have been studied in human volunteers with no acute toxic effects reported. Repeat oral doses up to 80 mg daily for 10 days in volunteers and repeat oral doses up to 10 mg daily for 14 days in patients were well tolerated. Adverse reactions were of mild or moderate severity, and incidences were similar in active and placebo treatment groups. Acute overdosage with this dosage form is unlikely since one bottle of Flonase Nasal Spray contains approximately 8 mg of fluticasone propionate. Chronic overdosage may result in signs/symptoms of hypercorticism (see PRECAUTIONS).

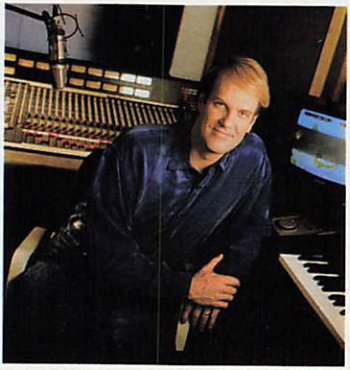
CHEERS

To John Tesh and Paramount Television Group, for hitting all the right notes. Recently, the Entertainment Tonight cohost found himself in a standoff with ET's producer/syndicator when he requested a three-month leave to concentrate on his music career and capitalize on the popularity of his Live at Red Rocks CD and number-one PBS fund-raising special. Paramount, which didn't want to be without one of ET's star attractions for so long, said no way, and went so far as to seek a temporary restraining order. Before things got any uglier, however, the two parties sat down and banged out a compromise: Tesh will get eight weeks off over the next four months, freeing him to make more "Teshmusic" (his word, not ours) for all those, uh, Teshpeople. You know who you are.



E.J. CAMP/OUTLINE

JEERS

And say it ain't so: In a new feature film, Mary Tyler Moore will turn the world on with her...well, let's just say it won't be her smile. In "Flirting with Disaster," due out next year, the actress best known for playing TV's twin icons of wholesomeness, Laura Petrie and Mary Richards, will appear nearly au naturel. Now, we've always said we'd like to see more of Mary, but this isn't exactly what we had in mind (if we had our druthers, CBS would give the green light to her new series, New York News, as a midseason replacement this fall). We realize that all actors feel the need to stretch, but, believe us, Mary, we like you just the way you are. You're gonna make it on your own, remember?

CHEERS

To the Sci-Fi Channel, for giving a proper TV home to the original Star Trek series. For far too long, TV's first Trek has been seen only in syndication, where Ginsu knife–wielding local programmers slice and dice episodes beyond recognition for the sake of a few more commercials. Such treatment will be a thing of the past, however, as of 1998—that's when the Sci-Fi Channel's seven-year exclusive-rights deal begins. Trekkers can be sure that Sci-Fi will present Kirk & Co. completely uncut—which signals a VCR-alert of cosmic proportions: On September 1, 1998, the channel will celebrate its acquisition of Trek with a nonstop marathon featuring all 79 episodes—plus the original network pilot—shown in their original order. That's what we call a Big Bang.

JEERS

To prime-time's incredible shrinking family viewing hour. Time was when Mom and Dad could gather round the TV at 8 P.M. with their kids, safe in the knowledge that neither Mary-Kate nor Ashley was in reality an evil twin waiting for just the right moment to blow away her Full House-hold. But this fall, in an effort to lure the young adults advertisers covet at the start of the evening and keep them glued to the tube for the entire night, the networks have moved more adult fare—Roseanne, Friends, Cybill, Ellen, etc.—into the children's hour. We can't blame the networks for looking to make a few extra bucks. But it's too bad that kids are gonna be the ones to pay. ■

THE COUCH CRITIC

By Jeff Jarvis

Star Trek: Voyager

UPN, Mondays, 8 P.M./ET

In Voyager, Star Trek at first seemed to be getting back to basics: A starship is on the roam with a hard skipper at the helm. But now, at season's end, this looks less like a Trek tribute and more like a slightly misguided imitation.

I blame the plot. In the premiere, starship Voyager chases a rebel ship into an "array" that flings it 70,000 light-years away, forcing the ship to embark on an epic trek toward home. That makes Voyager just one more show about a long, homesick odyssey: a Battlestar Galactica, a Lost in Space, or (as it has been called in Voyager's Internet forum) a Gilligan's Island. That doesn't make for suspense: Each week, you know the goal—home—but you also know it can't be met, or the series will end. So the journey continues, and I end up feeling like the kid in the backseat who asks, "Are we there yet?"

ROBBIE ROBINSON/PARAMOUNT

Set a course for home: Russ, Mulgrew.

This homesick quest also forces the crew—whom I like, top to bottom—to act all mournful and moony. So Kate Mulgrew as the captain can't help but come off like William Shatner without the humor. Tim Russ as Tuvok, a Vulcan tactical and security officer, acts like Leonard Nimoy minus the twinkle. Only Robert Picardo as the holographic physician finds himself better off than his Trek counterpart, Bones. There's a dry, I-can't-believe-I'm-here shrug in Picardo's amusingly gassy acting. He mocks Bones and his own role as a doc in China Beach plus all the docs in prime time today. He is the only one who doesn't seem to take himself, the Trek legend, or Voyager's pickle too seriously.

To give each episode its story, the starship does stumble upon detours along its way. But these often feel incidental. One episode's big drama is about a virus infecting the "bio-neural gelpacks" that power the ship—just an excuse for the sort of mumbo-jargon you hear on ER. That episode's big conflict is a ho-hum squabble over rules between the by-the-book Vulcan and the balky crew. In another show, the half-Klingon chief engineer is split into two women, one Klingon and one not, so her genes can be used to find a cure for some alien's bad skin—yet another excuse for techno-medical babble.

Oh, there are moments with action and glorious gadgetry; every Trek comes with these assets assured. But I'm disappointed that even as it ships out with a fine crew, this Trek too often neglects its prime directive: to explore new frontiers, meet new life-forms, face new moral challenges, ask cosmic questions, learn eternal lessons—yes, to boldly go where no one has gone before. Next fall, I hope Voyager can either find a shortcut home or adjust course and discover what *Trek*s are really all about: curiosity. ■

For Brett Butler, the trip from stand-up comic to sitcom star is no laughing matter

BY MARY MURPHY

Brett Butler didn't come to Hollywood with hat in hand. She didn't come looking for a break. Like Roseanne before her, this scrappy southern belle came to town as a successful stand-up. She was a woman who had created and honed her own persona, based on her own experience as a recovering alcoholic and survivor of domestic abuse. She was a blue-collar heroine whose image and style were shaped on the rough-and-tumble comedy circuit across America. By the time she reached the trendy comedy clubs of Sunset Boulevard, her performing identity was as firmly established as Roseanne's Domestic Goddess.

So when ABC came along to capitalize on her comedic talents, Butler wasn't about to let anyone tinker with her tried-and-true formula for success.

But Hollywood had other ideas. Ironically, the title of her new show—Grace Under Fire—became a metaphor for what was to come. Butler, it seemed, was also under fire. The old comedy hands who were supposed to develop her show into a hit seemed to undermine her at every turn. The clash was jarring. The free-form world of her stand-up comedy—the very thing that ABC wanted to capture each week—was not easily transformed into a sitcom, that formatted half-hour play that must be turned out week after week, on time and on budget. There were staffs to manage, writers to guide, promotional appearances, and relentless schedules to meet. Stand-up comedians like Brett Butler quickly discover that Hollywood is a world that can be as demanding and as cruel as any seedy comedy club filled with hecklers and drunks.

"It was a shock," says Butler. "In nightclubs, I knew where I stood with people. I worked by myself for so long that I could be pretty straight, even with club owners. I could call them up, book myself. I could say I wanted more money, and that what they were offering me wasn't fair. They could be straight back with me. I was amazed by the multilevels of duplicity when I came out West. Here there was a lot of cooing and breathy whispers, and an awful lot of people who couldn't afford to be honest. That wasn't fulfilling for anyone."

The deceit was chilling, draining, defeating. Hollywood was indeed a jungle. "Stand-up," she says, "is a lot more honest."

The person designated to guide the untrained stand-up star through the Hollywood minefield into a ratings Valhalla is the executive producer. But in Butler's case, just as with Roseanne, there were clashes, fights, firings, and much, much bitterness. Roseanne and her executive producer, Matt Williams, feuded fiercely over the direction of her series. He left after the first season. Butler clashed with Chuck Lorre, her first executive producer and the man listed as Grace's creator. She finally broke with him last June, when he moved over to Cybill. Butler still seethes at the mention of his name.

"I spent my first season mad because I was working under what I believe to be a petulant, emotionally abusive person," she says. (Lorre refused to comment for this article, though in the fall of '93, as the series was just getting off the ground, he spoke these prophetic words to TV GUIDE: "Brett wants to write some scripts, so that'll be an interesting experience. And then six to twelve episodes down the road, she'll fire me and take over the show.")

Hollywood, says ABC

Fire

Entertainment president Ted Harbert (the network boss of Butler, Roseanne, and Ellen DeGeneres), has only just begun to adjust to the arrival of strong-willed women who, when attacked, can bite back with a vengeance.

"When they come to TV, people tell them, 'Do what you are told, read the lines you are told,'" says Harbert. "Up to this point in their careers they are responsible for every nook and cranny of their work, even their hair and makeup. They are the basis of their own success. It is a very difficult transition. It is very difficult to turn control over to the writers. It is their butt out there, and they feel the need to take responsibility. They are their own franchise. It makes for awkward moments here and there."

Grace Under Fire, believes these fights have distinct gender overtones. "The same behavior in a man is called competent. If Jerry Seinfeld does it, he is taking charge. If Brett does it, she's being difficult."

But Butler has survived the transition, and then some. She was recently named executive producer of Grace Under Fire. It's a post she has long coveted. This appointment was no power play, says Tom Werner, who, along with Marcy Carsey, produces the series for ABC. "I don't think she is fighting for personal control, particularly," says Werner. "She wants to make sure that the vision she sees for this show is displayed on Wednesday nights in front of the audience."

Werner thinks that Butler's vision has everything to do with the success of Grace. "This was a very ordinary character, a single mom," he says. "But Brett imbued it with her own fresh point of view. That honesty rings so true. The audience doesn't feel it is part of a homogenized television factory. We weren't casting an actress who had been in three or four different shows."

Taking control of her show has not been easy for Butler. Despite all of the bravado on-stage, she is a lot more fragile than she seems. "I was really scared at first," she admits. "It seemed like something that could get taken away unless I did it perfectly. I feel more sure of myself now."

Butler sits in the quiet of her trailer. She's getting ready for the last episode of the season. The series' move to Wednesday nights has been a big success—Grace will finish fourth in the season-end Nielsen rankings—and Butler is about to launch a six-city comedy tour that will bring her back to her roots. She should be happy, deliriously so. She's not. What is troubling her is an ever-growing pile of nasty press clippings from the tabloids. This too is a war she never imagined during her stand-up days.

"As I've been riding the wave," she says, "people in dark places have been taking potshots at me. I need this tour to distance myself from Hollywood."

She is particularly upset about the latest attacks that have characterized her as an out-of-control mega-harpy drunk on her own power and success. One supermarket swipe has her terrorizing her writing staff and then firing 13 of her 17 writers on Grace Under Fire. The other four are reportedly job hunting.

"We have nine writers!" she says, visibly upset. "One got fired earlier in the season. The rest are all upstairs right now.

"I have been dragged up and down the street all year," she says, seething. "When you see your trash all over the street, you know people have gone through your garbage. You get blackmail threats from tabloids."

But the potshots, she has discovered, don't always come from "dark places."→

'I have a sister who talked to "Hard Copy." I didn't watch it. It was demolishing.'

"I have a sister who talked to Hard Copy," she says. "I didn't watch it; it was demolishing. She made it perfectly clear that they offered her a great deal of money if she would say things about me. She wants what she thinks I have. It's been a struggle. I feel disappointed and betrayed."

And Butler fired off an angry letter to Martin Short for caricaturing her as a violent hothead in a comedy sketch on his recent NBC special. In the note she declared, "I never hit anybody in this town or any other and I didn't deserve it.... [The portrayal] was cheap and easy and not fair. P.S. I could kick your [butt] if I wanted to."

Butler laughs. "I didn't draw a smiling face or write 'ha, ha,' so I hope he knows I was only kidding with the P.S."

Short is quick to defend the skit: "It was an absurdist piece," he says, "taken from the perception that Brett Butler is someone who promotes herself as strong and who doesn't take any garbage from anyone. The point was not to hurt. It was not malicious; it was a goofy cartoon."

Short adds that he sympathizes with Butler's larger dilemma: "In Brett's position, she has to have a strong direction for her show. And men in power have an aversion to strong women. Without question, it is definitely tougher in this town for a woman."

It's not just charges of a mean left hook she's had to deny; she supposedly has a mean mouth, too. A recent TV tabloid report had her flipping out on the set and screaming at her staff. This, too, is bunkum, she says. "I never scream [at the crew]," she fumes. "If you want a list of people in this town who scream and fight, put me a little further down, would you? Because I live with myself at the end of the day. I am not out of control."

Butler says she is proud of standing up for her crew. "I fight for them. I have walked off the stage on their behalf. That's the hypervigilant me. That's the part I am going to have to mellow out. I can't go around micromanaging." She also admits she gets ornery when it comes to the depiction of her character, Grace Kelly, the feisty refinery worker who has charmed her way into the hearts of millions of viewers. "Yeah," she says, "I've gotten really mad, but I don't scream. I go like this: 'No! This is not Grace. This is not what she'd do. I am not going to say anything like that.' The show that comes on the air is something that I am proud of."

Fed up with the tabloids, Butler recently appeared on Tom Snyder's late-night talk show and dared them to track down and publish a drunk-driving mug shot that was taken in 1981 after she smashed her car into two trees and a mailbox. It was a time when she was "self-medicating" with alcohol to blunt the violence and the pain of her crumbling first marriage.

'I felt I was drowning in this life of fame. I didn't want to take anybody down with me.'

"Stitches in my face, black eyes," Butler told Snyder. "'She was drunk, she was driving, she's on the number-one show.' Why don't they do that?"

The tabloids took her up on the challenge. Butler's bloodied face quickly appeared in thousands of supermarkets.

In the quiet of her trailer, Butler looks at the photo of a sad-eyed young woman. What does she feel when she sees that face? "I just want to hug her," she says quietly. "It was like it just wasn't me. When this came out, I wanted to cry and laugh at the same time. Part of it was that I really felt sorry for people who felt they were hurting me by putting that in there. It hurts them. I walk tall and unashamed. I'm a flawed person, but I'm a good broad."

Good, flawed, or indifferent, Butler is a woman who has conquered the phantoms from her past and looks at the present unflinchingly. She talks openly about her breakup with her second husband, New York attorney Ken Zeiger, and of their subsequent reconciliation. Pressure from the tabloids, her battles with her executive producer, and the instant fame of having a top series took its toll on her marriage, says the actress.

"How could I subject another person to this?" she asks. "How could I withstand it, much less a relationship? I felt I was drowning in this life of fame. I didn't want to take anybody down with me."

Butler came to terms with the relationship only when she came to terms with her success. "I realized that I deserved it, and I was good at it, and it was going to last as long as it was going to last." Her husband, she adds, was never threatened by her fame. "You'd be hard-pressed to find a more self-possessed person."

The couple's separation, although painful, ultimately repaired the cracks in the relationship. Indeed, it seems to have strengthened it, says Butler. "In some ways, we picked up where we left off. In other ways we got light-years ahead. So I feel pretty good about it. As much as the separation hurt, we required that to be where we are right now."

Butler also credits the success of her marriage to the fact that, unlike many famous women in Hollywood, she has never asked her husband to aid and abet her pursuit of stardom, à la Roseanne and Tom Arnold. "Ken has a very rational and logical mind," she says. "And he is equipped intellectually to negotiate on my behalf. But he doesn't do that. He stays out of my business fray, because we all know what happens to women who let their men intercede on their behalf."

If maintaining independence is a constant undercurrent in Butler's life, it is the overriding theme of Grace Under Fire. The battles that Grace faces on the show, especially single motherhood, are growing greater every day.

"She doesn't gloss over the difficulties," Dr. Brothers says. "She makes it realistic and not depressing. She's coping, and in a time when people don't show a lot of coping on television, that's quite extraordinary."

"I ask for flaws," says Butler. "I ask for Grace to show her temper. I ask for Grace to show her depression. We don't just have stick figures."

Next season, Grace will become depressed over the crack-up of a new romance. "She has her heart flat-out broken, not through abuse, dysfunction, or cruelty, but just because things don't work out. Not because she is a victim," says Butler.

In so many ways, Brett Butler is not what she seems to be. Her success has been certified by playing a blue-collar worker, her stand-up is filled with down-home humor, but Butler is nothing like Grace Kelly or her comic stage persona. She's offended if you think of her as trailer trash. Her father was an oil company executive, her mother a housewife. But her father, an alcoholic, abandoned his wife and family, including Butler and her two younger sisters.

Still, her father always stressed that his side of the family "was elite," she says. "They landed at Jamestown. They went to fine colleges. They were judges and neurologists. My father used to disparage my mother, whom he called shanty Irish. But my mother's parents raised a federal judge, a legislator, a teacher of the year. They accomplished more, and they did not die in a post-Faulkner southern dementia."

From where did the white-trash persona come? Butler credits her first husband: "I married down because it was interesting," she says. "I was not born to the trailer thing. If I came from a family of clay-eaters from Tennessee, you would know it."

Ask the college dropout what she's reading now and you'll wish you hadn't. "I just finished Tacitus, and before that I was reading Suetonius, The Twelve Caesars," she says. "I am also reading about Peter the Great. Kenny says he has to put a pillow over my face at night to get me to quit reading."

DAMA FINEMAN/SYGMA FOR TV GUIDE

Brett Butler, bookworm? "I love history," she says. "It is fascinating to see what people do with undiluted power. I am sure people will make something out of that. 'Grace? She thinks she is an emperor.' I don't care. I am also reading a lot of metaphysical stuff, 'cause I am in California."

Her producer, Tom Werner, wants Brett to incorporate the world of literature into the show. "Brett comes from a family in which reading was respected," he says, "and she can match my Harvard education any day with references to Flaubert and Voltaire. There's no reason the character can't also show that."

Butler also has aspirations to become a writer, although the timing for that, she claims, is all wrong for now. "Even if I do write something now, I'd have to write under a pseudonym to get anybody to look at the writing for itself," she says (though she is currently working on an autobiography). "I have stories I could publish now by virtue of the fact that I'm famous, but I'll know when they are good enough to get submitted to the Paris Review and good enough to get printed on their own. I am not there yet."

But Brett Butler is there with the spoken word, and she strikes a chord with the public each week, a chord so powerful that it sometimes surprises her. While she was in Memphis recently, a man brought his three daughters over to meet her. The father reminded her of her first husband, and she was shaken. "I thought he would hate me," she says. "But he didn't. He told those girls, 'No matter what she has done, no matter how she stumbles or falls or cusses, this is a lady.' These are sustaining moments in my life. They make me feel like my show is more than just a sitcom." ■

REISIG & TAYLOR FOR TV GUIDE (3)

Actress Sabrinah Christie is complaining as only an actress can: with high drama. "I wanted to write a book called 'The Worst Audition Ever'" she says and launches into an impression of a brusque casting director: "'Yes, yes, yes, thank...YOU.' I go out, I go, 'Mom, I don't think I'm going to get a callback on this one.'"

Mom?

That's right. Mom. For cool, composed Sabrinah is only 9 years old.

On this particular Sunday in March, she's just one of dozens of child actors and their families packing in the complimentary brunch at the Oakwood Apartments in Los Angeles. After bagels and juice, the kids will pass on playing outdoors to concentrate on character development and scene improvisation.

It's all part of the Oakwood's program to serve the annual invasion of some 350 ever-hopeful child actors who call the furnished apartments home during the frenzied pilot season that runs from January through May, a season that lures thousands of young performers to Southern California every year.

Rocky Mountain Talent Pool, one of many professional management groups that organize traveling troupes of children and parents for pilot season, has 14 clients from the Denver area. Freckle-faced, honey-haired Sabrinah Christie is one of the most promising. Precocious and elfin at just under 4 feet, Christie has had countless encouraging auditions—including directors' callbacks on major feature films and interviews at NBC and CBS—but no work since her arrival in February. One director loved her for the 6-year-old lead in a sci-fi telefilm but ultimately cast twins, more cost-effective since child-labor laws limit the hours a minor can work each day.

"If agents can get the kids to L.A., we'll look at them," says casting director Michael Donovan. "Kids grow up. We're constantly having to replenish our supplies."

Agent Meredith Fine, head of Coast Kids, says money is a major motivating factor. "We have kids doing six figures a year, and they're only 5 years old," says Fine, who brought in 15 children for pilot season. Three booked pilots.

Itinerant talent arrives by plane, train, bus, or car, sometimes without the necessary acting credentials or cash. Families are split apart, and friends, pets, and school are left behind for rents higher than a midwestern mortgage. Car rentals, cellular phone and beeper services, acting classes, private coaches, and schooling can easily run $4,000 a month. Adding to the economic crunch, parents often must leave jobs to help children chase an elusive dream.

Unfortunately, the past decade's "kid driven" shows, which ignited the baby acting boom, are being dropped for adult buddy sitcoms. "This season was pilot-season hell," says children's agent Judy Savage. "There were too many kids and too few pilots being done with kids." The odds are against a child's passion paying off, according to Harry Medved, director of communications for the Screen Actors Guild. "The majority of young performers barely make a living wage," he notes.

The trip is a major financial strain for Sabrinah Christie's mother, Melissa, an unemployed dance instructor. "An efficiency studio in Oakwood is $1,000 a month," Melissa says, holding her 2-year-old

Fred Savage of The Wonder Years (right), Zachery Ty Bryan of Home Improvement (below), and Rider Strong of Boy Meets World are prime examples of young actors who hit it big when they journeyed to Los Angeles, moved into temporary housing like the Oakwood Apartments, and made the audition rounds.

More recent success tales abound: In her first week in Hollywood, Jennifer Ogletree, 10, of Ohio, booked a lead and bagged a five-figure salary for the ABC telefilm "Problem Child 3." San Franciscan Mario Yedida, 10, was cast as Rosanna Arquette's son in the ABC pilot Daisy and Chess; out-of-towners landed three of the four kid roles in NBC's pilot Raising Caines; 17-year-old Kyle Howard of Colorado won a costarring role with Jamie Lee Curtis in the feature "House Arrest."

daughter, Nakeirah. "I don't have an extra $1,000 to burn."

After renting out the family home and promising the state of Colorado Sabrinah would do four hours of homework each day, the Christies drove out from Evergreen in an aging Mercury Lynx.

Family friends and teachers have pushed Sabrinah toward the cameras since she was a toddler. "Sabrinah has always been incredibly verbal," Melissa says. "She was talking in complete sentences at 7 months." She started with modeling, then moved into children's theater and regional commercials. An audition tape of her performing a scene as the wisecracking young C.C. in "Beaches" got her a Hollywood agent.

"I love acting," Sabrinah says. "It's taking something off of paper and putting it into movement and action. It just seems so magic."

Melissa struggles to assess her daughter's chances. "She got very positive feedback, but the rejection she's faced is massive," Melissa says. "What scares me is I don't want to set her up for a heartbreak."

Sabrinah's father, a commercial pilot, was killed in a car accident the year of her birth, and her maternal grandmother, who also dreamed of being an actress, died of leukemia. "She would have been so gung ho for this," Melissa says of her late mother. "Any doubts I have about Sabrinah, she would be kicking me and saying, 'Give the kid a chance.'"

"Grandma would be thrilled now," Sabrinah says, her face luminous.

Michael Galeota, 10, of Long Island, says he feels as if he's been to at least 100 auditions since arriving in January with his 9-year-old brother, Jimmy, also an actor, and his mother (and manager), Bonnie. "A lot of disappointments—I've gotten close on almost half of them," says Michael, who looks like a young Ray Liotta with dark, tousled hair, big, brown eyes, and a mischievous mouth. A major heartbreak came after four readings with Tony Danza for the part of his son in the pilot for Hudson Street (subsequently added to ABC's fall schedule). "It's just hard," Michael says, an ache in his voice, "to think that you're one of the last kids and you didn't get it." Bonnie wanted to go home at that point. Michael begged to stay another month. Two days later, he was cast in a 30-minute live presentation of a sitcom with Steven Banks, produced by Brandon Tartikoff and New World Entertainment.

"My mom always tells me, when a bad door shuts," Michael philosophizes over frozen yogurt in the CBS commissary, "a good door opens."

He admits he misses his friends back home, whom he hasn't seen in seven months. Last summer he came west for four months of shooting with Daniel Stern in Twentieth Century Fox's "Bushwhacked"; it was his first featured role in a theatrical film. During that time his father relocated the family from Long Island to Boca Raton, Florida, for his new job as a shoe store manager. After a Christmas reunion, Bonnie brought the boys to Los Angeles for their second pilot season, financed in part by proceeds from national commercials they'd done for Pizza Hut and Tylenol.

"I'm doing this for Mike," Bonnie says of her son's career. "If he quits, I'm outta here. It's not a nice business." She sounds weary of all the close calls.

"Series kids can make six figures," observes former child actor turned children's manager Michael Harrah, "but you have 40 kids, at most, working regularly on series."

And little of that six-figure income may be left after 38 percent is deducted for taxes, 10 percent for agents, 15 percent for managers, and, if the child works or lives in California, 25 percent for a trust untouchable until age 18.

"It's not just the money," says Paul Petersen, 49, former child star of The Donna Reed Show and founder of the lobbying and support group A Minor Consideration. "It's the hours of preparation involved in going after success." He adds, "If parents thought for half a second about investing in their own careers or retraining, that income potential would be far greater."

Experts agree acting can be healthy for children as long as it remains a balanced part of their life, "a fun hobby," as one agent who ushered her own children through the business says. If the emphasis shifts to career building and financial returns, as it often must when a family moves for a child's work, "It's too much responsibility," says Dr. Ron Zodkevitch, a Beverly Hills child psychiatrist.

By the end of April, the Oakwood's Sunday brunch crowd has thinned considerably. Just before leaving town, the Galeota boys got six weeks' work in a low-budget feature. And Sabrinah Christie, shortly after her return to Colorado, got a call to fly first class to San Antonio, Texas, for three days' work at SAG scale ($504 a day) on a scene in "Ace Ventura II" with Jim Carrey. "It was awesome," Sabrinah reports.

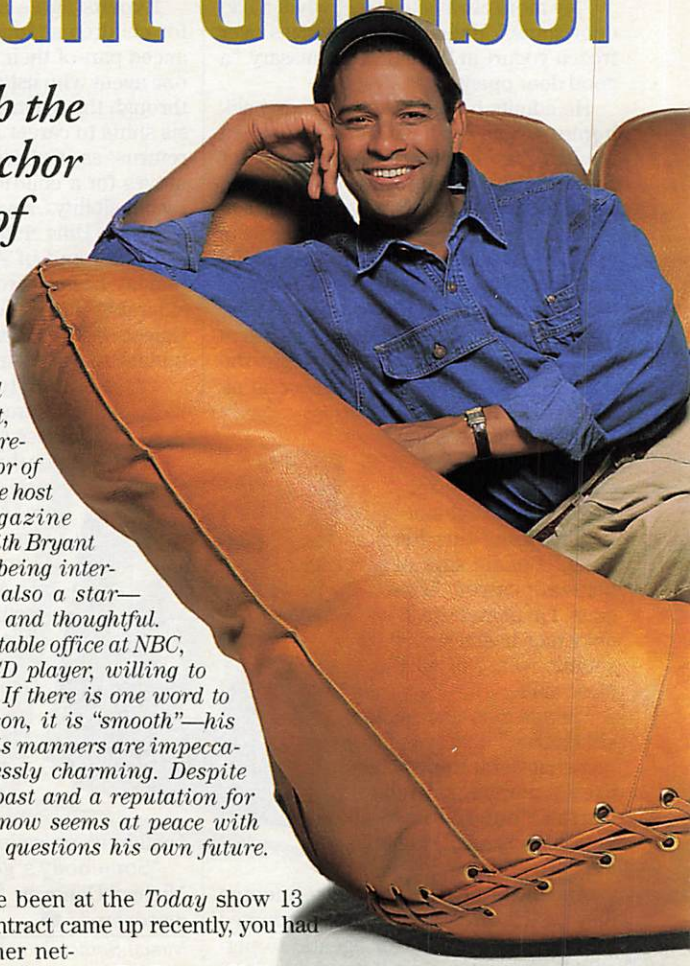
INTERVIEW

Bryant Gumbel

A talk with the 'Today' anchor at the top of his game



As an interviewer on TV, Bryant Gumbel is hard to match. Smart, quick, and always prepared, he is the anchor of NBC's "Today" and the host of HBO's new magazine show, "Real Sports with Bryant Gumbel." When he's being interviewed, Gumbel is also a star—gracious, forthright, and thoughtful. He sits in his comfortable office at NBC, soft music on his CD player, willing to tackle any question. If there is one word to sum him up in person, it is "smooth"—his clothes are perfect, his manners are impeccable, and he is endlessly charming. Despite mixed press in the past and a reputation for brittleness, Gumbel now seems at peace with himself—even as he questions his own future.

TV GUIDE: You've been at the Today show 13 years. When your contract came up recently, you had some talks with other networks. Are you restless?

BY JANICE KAPLAN

Bryant Gumbel: I'm always restless. The tougher part of that answer is "Okay, I'm restless; what do I want to do instead?" For the life of me I can't figure out something in television that I would rather be doing. But the accent's on television. Often, I just think about getting out.

TVG: You're looking to be thrilled by something?

BG: Aren't we all?

TVG: What would have made you jump this time?

BG: I guess I'd have needed to see something that would thrill me a lot more on an ongoing basis. Doing ten hours of live TV on a network is hard to match. And I'm past the point where money is really the trigger. It's just that the people who run your life—accountants, lawyers, agents—start yelling that you've got this great career, that there's more money to be made, still more to do.

TVG: Morning shows follow a fairly strict formula. Are you able to flex your creative muscles as much as you'd like?

BG: Mine aren't very huge. I don't walk away saying, "Geez, I wish I could have put the Judge Ito dancers on this morning." There have been a lot of occasions when I'd like to have been able to speak my mind more, but for the most part I don't feel terribly constrained.

TVG: You're older than Jane Pauley was when she left Today. Do you ever worry that NBC will pull a Deborah Norville on you? Matt Lauer's waiting in the wings.

BG: Matt's a good buddy. You know what? I never want to be in a position where I'm not wanted. If they ever reach that point, then I'll be the first one to say, "So long." I'm not petrified of it. There are too many other things to do, and life's way too short. And yes, you're right, I am getting old.

TVG: Did I say that?

BG: I think about it an awful lot. I'm 46. Middle-aged, they say. John Cleese and I were talking when he turned 55, and he was saying that if he lives an average life, he figures he has 16 summers left—and he really doesn't want to spend any of those working. Once one summer's gone, you're never getting it back. Okay, I'm not really old; I know that. But I do recognize that my summers—my time—have started becoming increasingly valuable to me.

TVG: Someone recently wrote that you're one of the sharpest interviewers in the business—

BG: But?

TVG: Yes, there's a but: "Talent doesn't necessarily translate to public adoration." How do you respond to that?

BG: I don't know what that means. I'm not sure public adoration is something to aspire to in this business. I find it interesting that people who are anxious to criticize me keep changing the ground rules. After a while, their agenda becomes pretty obvious. Various critics who are very uncomfortable with me want to make it clear to the public that I'm not their kind of person.

TVG: Why are they uncomfortable?

BG: Oh, a variety of reasons. I think it's possible for people to dislike me and be very objective about it. I don't deny that. But I do think a lot is personal. You read that I supposedly have a huge ego. I find it odd that the charge is never leveled at Ted Koppel or Peter Jennings or anybody else in the business. At that point, you have to start to wonder—why is it only coming at me?

C. BLANKENHORN

Cheery in the morning with Katie Couric.

TVG: Are you suggesting it's racial?

BG: I think for a lot of people it's race. To suggest there's no racial aspects to judgments about me is naive. I've said that if you lined up Ted Koppel, Barbara Walters, and Bryant Gumbel together and they all said the same thing in the same fashion, to most insecure critics, Ted would be confident, Barbara would be bitchy, and Bryant would be arrogant. Let's face it, there are a lot of people who are uncomfortable with the idea of a black man being their intellectual or economic or social equal or superior. It doesn't bother me, but I do think their judgments are warped.

TVG: Does it hurt when people call you arrogant or controlling?

BG: Find me a successful black man in television who has not been accused of being arrogant. It happened to Robert Guillaume, to Flip Wilson, to Bill Cosby, to Arsenio Hall. And after a while you start to say, "Well, is this coincidence?" I tend to think not. Do I exercise any more control over this program than Dan Rather has at CBS Evening News? Absolutely not. Than Tom Brokaw at NBC Nightly News? Not even close. But somehow that becomes a bigger deal when the guy in question is black. I don't want it to come off that I'm sitting here whining about it. I'm not. But I do think there is a racial aspect to the judgments.

TVG: When you first came on Today, there were several articles suggesting that you would be opening the floodgates for more black men on TV news.

BG: Hasn't happened. Probably won't now. And with the passing of time, it becomes more difficult to justify the [low] number [of blacks] working in TV news. But what's cause for greater concern is the executive suite at the network, where there are very few minorities in positions of influence. I think that's inexcusable.

TVG: So how do you change it?

BG: I don't know. Should I pull up a chair in front of [NBC News president] Andy Lack's office and sit down and hold my breath? I'm not necessarily sure that would achieve anything. And I'm not necessarily sure the problem is there. It goes beyond the doors of NBC. It goes directly to the heart of the affirmative-action debate that is so much an issue now.

Something like 96 percent of the executive suites are filled by white men, and yet we have politicians running around trying to cater to white men who feel aggrieved. What's wrong with this picture? Who's kidding whom here?

TVG: What about the O.J. trial? What effect has that had on these issues?

BG: You know, the O.J. trial is a unique American phenomenon. It has overwhelmed us all...but I'm both amused and befuddled by people who, when they first greet you, will say, "I'm so sick of the O.J. trial" and then proceed to talk about it for three hours.

TVG: Was O.J. a buddy?

BG: Yes, O.J. was a friend. We've known each other for, I guess, 23 years, 22 years. Were we excessively close? No. Were we close enough to have dinner? Yes. Close enough to play golf together? Yes.

TVG: Have you been in touch?

BG: I've written. And no, I have not asked to see him.

TVG: Surely you want the interview after the trial ends just like everybody else.

BG: I think he knows. He's a smart man, and I've made those wishes known to a number of people.

TVG: His lawyers?

BG: You can probably guess. I would be surprised if every other journalist in the world hadn't done the same.

TVG: As a friend of his, what do you feel?

BG: I feel as most people would if a friend was accused of murder. Your initial reaction is "No, my friend couldn't have done it." Then, as you get into it, you hope that your friend didn't do it. And that's where I am right now.

TVG: Today has done more than most other morning shows in covering the trial.

BG: Is that true? I don't know. But I think it's been warranted. If it became apparent to us tomorrow—tomorrow—that most people really didn't want to hear about the O.J. trial, we would move on. But you've got to ask yourself, what do you replace it with? Should we talk instead about the budget debate? I'm not putting it down, but people aren't coming up and going, "Hey, Bryant. How about that line-item veto?" We reflect what society wants to hear about.

TVG: There's such a precarious balance between news and entertainment. For instance, you've been appearing lately on David Letterman's show.

BG: You know, it makes me very uncomfortable to be on. I'm not an entertainer, and you're supposed to go on there to be entertaining. But I'm flattered that he asks.

TVG: Would you like a late-night show to go against his?

BG: You're assuming that one is open, and that it's something I'd want to do. Not yet.

TVG: Not yet? Possibly in the future?

BG: Anything's possible in the future.

TVG: Let's talk about your brother, Greg. He'll be NBC's daytime anchor for the '96 Summer Olympics. Any jealousy?

BG: I'm thrilled for Gregory. I really am. Since day one, people have wanted to imagine there's some kind of competition between us. Never has been. Greg's older. I've been at it longer. I've been helpful where I can to Greg's career.

TVG: Brother or not, didn't you have any little twinges about wanting to do the Olympics again?

BG: I did it in '88—something like 80 hours hosting all the prime-time Olympics. And it was a wonderful experience for which I'm proud to say I won an Emmy. But when it was done, I was exhausted. Would I die to do it again? The answer is no. Really.

At a 1994 party with wife June.

STEVE SANDS/OUTLINE

TVG: Greg's very different from you.

BG: Extremely different. Greg likes being in crowds. I don't. Greg likes playing the gregarious role and having fun. I don't. Greg's a guy with open arms for everybody. I'm not. I tend to be suspicious of a lot of people, with good reason, I think. I suspect that if Greg ever gets burned, he might change a little bit.

TVG: You've been "burned" by negative press. That has to make you less open.

BG: What do they say? A pessimist is an optimist with experience. If I make a negative comment about someone, you can bet it will make news. But recently, I did a golf tournament that raised almost a million dollars in two days for the United Negro College Fund. Nobody wrote a thing about that.

TVG: Would you really like to go back to the days of being left alone?

BG: Anonymity is like virginity. Once it's gone, it's gone. So I have no illusions about that.

TVG: Are you afraid that everything you say or do will be misinterpreted?

BG: Not afraid; cautious. Realistic. For example, I'll walk down the hall and there's a young lady walking down the hall. Let's see, if I say hello and act nice, then I'm coming on to her. If I say nothing and walk past, then I'm smug and arrogant. So you wind up just feeling like somebody who is a victim-in-waiting.

TVG: It's not much fun being a guy anymore, I guess.

BG: It's terrible. It really is. Supposedly, everything you do, now you're motivated by something other than what it seems. It's laughable. I'm said to be this guy who has these terrible problems with women and I'm a woman-hater, et cetera. And yet, most of our staff is women, and I invite you to go out and talk to them.

TVG: Let's get to really important matters—your weight and your clothes.

BG: Both excessive. I'm heavy. I've always been a chunky kid, and I'm conscious of my weight. But I do like to cook. I cooked all this weekend—both dinners at my house. I know that doesn't fit my image either.

TVG: Are you a clotheshorse?

BG: I enjoy clothing. Katie [Couric] thinks Matt and I are weird because we go shopping together every now and then. Does that seem bizarre? Matt will call up sometimes and say, "Hey, I'm going over to Barneys. Wanna go?" Okay, fine, we go.

TVG: Hey, the softer, gentler Bryant. The Alan Alda of morning television.

BG: No, I'm not. Please don't write that.

TVG: OK, to go back to an old topic, what's your relationship with Jane Pauley these days?

BG: Still very close. Jane and I see each other quite a bit. One of the many myths is that somehow Jane and I parted enemies. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Jane and I have been very dear friends for a lot of years We always talk about how we've grown up together. I can remember being with Jane throughout her pregnancies. And she was with me before my daughter was born. To this day, I'm as close to Jane as I've ever been to anybody I've ever worked with. And she knows that.

TVG: Imagine NBC gives you a blank check and says, "Go find the person to put in the chair next to you." Only one caveat: It can't be Katie or Jane.

BG: Hah! Boy, that's dangerous. You know I won't answer that.

TVG: Come on, just for fun. A choice of three.

BG: Okay, here goes: My wife, June, to keep things peaceful at home. Oprah Winfrey, because she can do no wrong. And Hillary Clinton, just to tick off the right-wing extremists.

TVG: You haven't regularly anchored a prime-time network newsmagazine. Have they been offered?

BG: Many, many times. I've always been reluctant. First, because I think there was a glut of magazines in the market and a sameness to them that didn't thrill me. Second, because I don't kid myself—my strength is doing live TV.

TVG: Everybody else seems to do both.

BG: Well, I think if you try to do both, it shows. I think if you're going to try to do a magazine program, you owe it to viewers and to yourself to do a little more than just show up and put your voice on somebody else's work.

Teed-off: At a pro-am tourney.

TVG: Are you saying that's what Katie Couric does?

BG: I'm not going to judge anybody else's work. But if I were going to do a Bryant Gumbel prime-time magazine program, I would have to give it my full commitment. I couldn't do that while doing the Today program.

TVG: Was that Connie Chung's problem at CBS—too many roles?

BG: I don't want to speculate what happened in their shop, but I'm a big Dan Rather fan. It's a better program with him alone. He's the one with the credibility.

TVG: You've taken on another project yourself—HBO's sports magazine. Why?

BG: Because the HBO show is four times a year; the network thing would have been a weekly gig and just another magazine program. Here, we may yet ruffle some feathers, we may yet break some new ground.

TVG: You've been married 21 years. June has surely had to deal with a lot of tales about you.

BG: If somebody wants to call up the newspaper and say, "I saw Bryant Gumbel having dinner with three girls last night," somebody'll print it—whether it has an ounce of truth or not. If you're going to spend your life with me and love me, then you have to realize there's something more.

TVG: Today took a trip to Africa a few years ago; it sounded like it was a passion of yours. Are there any new passions?

BG: No, I have nothing that means as much to me as that trip did. And maybe that's a failing of mine, because I do think that everybody needs something to remain excited about on an ongoing basis. And I don't have that.

TVG: If we make an appointment to have another interview in ten years, where should I book it?

BG: You know what? I doubt you'll find me very easily. If anything, your article will probably start, "Whatever happened to..." Seriously. Because I don't envision myself being anywhere close to center stage in ten years.

TVG: Is this a midlife crisis?

BG: You know what? I think I am probably going through one. I don't think those of us who sit in front of the camera are immune to them.

TVG: Struggling for the next goal, what are some things you want to be doing?

BG: Golfing, writing, being a recluse.

TVG: Will you write the Today show tell-all book?

BG: Well, Jane and I made a pact: We'd never write a book about the show. We laugh about it, but I'll keep the pact. ■

What to watch for as the American shuttle 'mates' with the Russian space station

BY JAMES RESTON JR.

ODD COUPLING

It's historic, and NASA expects a billion people will be watching. It's the most important mission since the first launch of the space shuttle 14 years ago, and it's got the coolest customer of the entire astronaut corps as its commander. It consummates the new relationship between Russia and the United States. Political speeches will flow, but the show's the thing.

And when the U.S. space shuttle Atlantis docks with the Russian space station, Mir, during the week of June 22, it will be quite a show. Like the old Apollo days, the glory of this mission belongs to the flyers.

The commander is Robert L. "Hoot" Gibson, a 48-year-old veteran of four shuttle missions, including a secret one six years ago that reportedly put a spy satellite over Russia. Gibson is the epitome of the top-gun, ace jet jockey. Checked out in over 45 types of aircraft, including MiG fighters, he flies a Formula One propeller racer for kicks. Gibson will need all his skill this week. Thirty feet from the Mir, he will be on his own. In fact, in the last few minutes before docking, he risks losing video contact with Houston.

A huge amount of information will be radioed to him. He must watch the relative positions of the shuttle and Mir, his closing speed, his angle of attack, and his position relative to Earth. "I must fly without thinking," he said. At his shoulder will be cosmonaut Anatoly Solovyev, supposedly as a calming influence.

Two quarter-million-pound vehicles are coming together in an intricate space waltz. Gibson cannot come in too softly, or he'll bounce off. But the Russians are more worried about the accelerator. In the 1975 Apollo-Soyuz mission, the American craft gave the Russians a big jolt, and the Russians have not forgotten.

If all goes well—and that means a "hard mate"—Gibson gets to deliver a line that would have been the ultimate Cold War fantasy: "Houston, we have capture!"

Deep Space news

In syndication, no one can hear you scream. Or something. It's scary out there. People got the wrong idea, for instance, when UPN announced that it had canceled its entire lineup with the exception of Star Trek: Voyager. Some folks—who happen to get Deep Space Nine on a UPN station—assumed that DS9 was among those that were deep-sixed. Now, since the very idea of explaining the whole syndication/network thing fills me with a Kierkegaardian dread, suffice it to say that while DS9 is on UPN in some areas, it has never been of UPN. Translation: Don't worry—a fourth season is on its way.

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

Alternate universe: Changes on "DS9."

Trek honcho Rick Berman wants to assure us that the show is very much alive, and he has given us a few scintillating tidbits about its future. "I think those who have followed DS9 can tell that it really came into its own in the third season," he says. "Our head writer, Ira Steven Behr, has done a terrific job with the variety of stories—a mix of action-driven episodes, character-driven ones, Quark-driven comic stories, and so on."

Agreed. Now give us the scoop.

"The fourth season will launch with a two-hour movie—not a two-parter but a full-blown, two-hour premiere. We'll be introducing a new cast member."

Oh? Do tell. "Uh…can't tell you."

Male? "Can't tell you."

Female? "Can't tell you."

Hermaphrodite? "Oh, you caught me. Now you've ruined everything. No, this isn't Deep Space Springer. I really can't tell you. But I can tell you there will be a slight alteration in the premise of the show that I think is going to be terrific."

And can you tell us about that? "No."

Just a hint? "OK. How can I put this in a way that will let me sleep tonight? The delicate treaty that has existed for over 15 years between the Federation and the Klingon Empire…is about to unravel."

No kidding. "And that's practically the least of it." Or as Telly Savalas used to say on those Players Club International commercials, "That's just for starters." ■

This week, USA's Weird Science is playing the zone—The Twilight Zone, that is. In the episode debuting Saturday, June 17, at 10 P.M./ET, computer-generated genie Lisa (Vanessa Angel) sends her creators Gary and Wyatt (John Mallory Asher and Michael Manasseri) directly into their favorite TV show in order to patch up an argument, and the result is a T-Zone parody packed with oodles of arcane references. Most of the episode was shot in black and white; there's a stellar Rod Serling impersonation, courtesy of Lee Tergesen (Weird's boorish Chett); and, to top it off, writers Tom Spezialy and Alan Cross even recruited famed voice artist June Foray (the original Rocky the Squirrel) to reprise her talking-doll bit from T-Zone's "Living Doll" episode. Well, sort of. You don't want to miss this one.

Big changes at little Loving

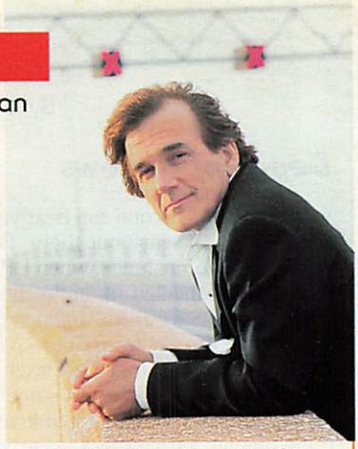
Dennis Parlato, the abfab actor who plays Loving troublemaker Clay Alden, is being written out of the show by his own choice. "As I told [Loving executive producer] Jeannie Burke, this has nothing to do with dissatisfaction," says Parlato. "I love working with this gang. Clay is a great character. But I believe you gotta keep moving if you can afford to. Unlike in most businesses, it doesn't look good if an actor stays in one place for very long—the more jobs, the better the résumé."

Parlato (who tapes his last episode August 18) has always been a vagabond: In his 20s he quit his job as a high-school English teacher to become a dancer, only to quit again, at age 30, to become an actor. "I started out on Loving as a one-month substitute and was even hesitant to do that," recalls Parlato, who replaced Larkin Malloy (who took a break to address personal problems) in 1992 and made such a sensational Clay that Malloy was not allowed back.

Unlike most actors who flee the New York soap scene, Parlato has no plans to go Hollywood. "I'd be heading to L.A. if I felt things were slow in New York, but they're not," says Parlato, who has juggled Loving with an enviable array of Broadway and Off-Broadway roles. "I have a certain momentum building in New York that I haven't had before, and I want to follow up on that. I want to get out on the open market, especially with so many prime-time series now shooting here."

Parlato will not be replaced, and (though ABC wouldn't cough up details) word has it that Loving will take advantage of his departure in a very dramatic way. In fact, at press time, ABC Daytime execs (who'd rather stick with this excellent but low-rated half-hour soap than introduce a new one) were to meet with affiliates about sweeping changes. Among them, sources say: a major (we're talking major) massacre of characters, a new setting, and possibly even a title change. ■



ROBERT MILAZZO/THE RODI COMPANY

How to save Guiding Light

First the good news: At press time, Guiding Light's ratings appeared to be inching upward. And we also mustn't forget that Michael Laibson (GL's newly installed exec producer) worked wonders during his 1988–93 reign at Another World. Still, we can't afford to ignore the possibility of cancellation—so take action now. Write to CBS Daytime chief Lucy Johnson (7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90036) and strongly express your support for GL. Write to Procter & Gamble boss Ken Fitts (79 Madison Ave., New York, NY 10016) and urge him to remain committed to this landmark program—and to start exploring alternative action should CBS give it the ax (like maybe offering GL to NBC or Fox?). Raise an equally big stink with your local CBS affiliate, which is more powerful than you can imagine. Mobilize your fellow GL watchers. Be bold. Be creative. Miracles do happen. Besides, if you don't do everything you possibly can to save this show now, you'll have no right to bellyache later.

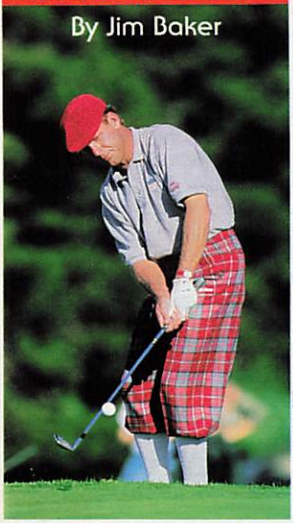
Wright's ordeal has Miller mum

One expects Johnny Miller, the golf pro turned NBC analyst, to be even more ebullient an interviewee than usual as the U.S. Open approaches (June 17 and 18, 12:30–6:30 P.M./ET). The Open, being played this year at Shinnecock Hills on Long Island, is his favorite tourney. He vividly recalls the 63 he posted at the 1973 Open at Oakmont—considered by many the best round ever played. That win marked the start of a 14-victory tear that made Miller the game's hottest star through the next three years.



STEPHEN DUNN/ALLSPORT

Man from plaid: Payne Stewart was on a roll after his '91 win.

But these are careful times, even for the shoot-from-the-lip Miller. The Ben Wright controversy—over whether the CBS golf analyst said lesbianism in the LPGA discouraged sponsorships—has made Miller cautious. Sort of.

"You don't sit in a room doing an interview unless there's a third party or you take your own tape recorder," Miller says. "It's gotten to that. I've been so open; there aren't many subjects I won't take a shot at. But as a man, you don't talk about women [golfers]. That's like a hunter telling a fisherman how to fish."

If the past is any indication, the Shinnecock gallery will be a colorful one; prior Opens on Long Island have had their share of wild scenes. "The combination of hot weather and beer is what brought the hecklers down on Greg Norman there," says Miller.

That was in 1986, when the Aussie was in the midst of blowing a five-stroke lead. As Norman came off a double bogey, an inebriated heckler yelled, "You're choking, Norman!" And the golfer shot back, "If you have something to say to me, then try it after the round when I can do something about it!"

Hecklers notwithstanding, Miller loves the Long Island course. "If I owned the U.S. Open, I would play at Shinnecock, Pebble Beach, and throw in another course every fifth year. They're the two greatest in the country. Augusta may be more beautiful, but Shinnecock is the greatest golf test in America. It beckons to you, 'Come give me a try and see if you can handle me.' The shots are so outstanding, if you win there, you can really play this game."

Miller believes the U.S. Open is far more challenging than the Masters. "To me, it's the ultimate gut check—as a player and as an announcer," he says. "It challenges every part of your game. It's the best tourney in the world. You see guys unravel, choke."

But a strong U.S. Open also can jump-start a career. "Raymond Floyd played off the charts after winning in '86. The Open has a way of doing that for you. It did for Payne Stewart [the '91 winner], Chip Beck [who placed second, twice], and me."

Speaking of playing golf rather than analyzing it, Miller may actually be ready to get back in the swing. "I have a difficult decision to make in the next year. I've said that by age 50 I'd want to play on the senior tour," says the 48-year-old. "But somebody's got to be a good analyst for the game. So we'll see."

Meanwhile, he'll keep a tape recorder handy. ■

A slick 'Disclosure' of sex, power, and cyber-flash

As if the issue of sexual harassment weren't already controversial and perplexing, Disclosure, based on the Michael Crichton best-seller, puts a tricky spin on it. Here the person doing the harassing is not a man—the most typical situation—but a female executive, Meredith Johnson (Demi Moore). In a steamy scene she puts the make on Tom Sanders (Michael Douglas), a former lover who's now her subordinate at a Seattle computer company. Despite its flaws—Moore's character has little depth—"Disclosure" is always watchable and entertaining. Like most Crichton stories, it has an element of glitzy high-tech wizardry, in this case a virtual-reality gadget. Roma Maffia stands out as Catherine Alvarez, Douglas's tough lady lawyer. Drop Zone Fast action, spectacular free-fall sequences, and precision skydiving stunts help make up for a dubious plot in this Wesley Snipes action thriller. Busey leads a gang of skydiving terrorists who hijack a computer wizard (Michael Jeter) from a Boeing 747 —while it's cruising at 38,000 feet. Yancy Butler adds interest as a spunky skydiving instructor. Dumb fun. (R 1:41 Paramount CC)

NEW YORK METROPOLITAN EDITION

Late-breaking news & views June 17, 1995

Where New TV Movies Are: Melrose Place and Beverly Hills

Q: On which network will you find Melrose Place's Josie Bissett, Courtney Thorne-Smith, Laura Leighton, and Daphne Zuniga, and Beverly Hills, 90210's Brian Austin Green, Tori Spelling, and Tiffani-Amber Thiessen?

A: Any one they want.

Fox's hot young actors are a mainstay of next season's TV-movie crop. After many recent celebrity-bio flops, the four networks are falling back on women-in-jeopardy movies, the younger the better.

DIEGO UCHITEL/FOX

Thorne-Smith: TV-movie heroine.

"All the networks are chasing the Melrose and 90210 people," admits ABC movie exec Judd Parkin. "That's the audience we want." Among ABC's coming attractions: Bissett cracks up in "Dare to Love" and Thiessen marries badly in "The Enemy Within."

On NBC, Thiessen and real-life partner Green are in "Scared by Love" about date rape, Tracey Gold and Thorne-Smith play romantic rivals in "Beauty's Revenge," Spelling is in the mystery "Deadly Pursuits," and Zuniga tops the miniseries thriller "Degree of Guilt."

At Fox, Leighton stars in "Texas Heat," but its TV-movie slate for '95–'96 tilts toward younger men: a Munsters remake; "Nick Fury," about the comic-book hero; and sci-fi flicks including "Dr. Who," "Alien Nation," and "The Invaders."

At CBS, though its new series will aim young, its movies will reach out to a more mature audience with "quality projects and big names," according to a CBS spokesman. It will present Jessica Lange and Alec Baldwin in "A Streetcar Named Desire," Woody Allen and Peter Falk in "The Sunshine Boys," and "The West Side Waltz" with Shirley MacLaine and Liza Minnelli.

Roseanne to Arnold, ABC: "Truce!"

Roseanne wants a truce with former hubby Tom Arnold, and with her network. After months of mutual sniping between the actress and Arnold, seven-months-pregnant Roseanne called TV GUIDE from her bed to say, "Why won't he let me have my baby in peace? Repeated attempts have been made by my camp to settle the divorce finances, and he refuses." Roseanne promises "a jury trial next year if it is not settled. It will be a huge media circus and not to our benefit." She asks, "He has a career and a girlfriend; why can't he leave me alone?" Professionally, she also wants a truce with ABC, whose entertainment president, Ted Harbert, she publicly denounced for moving her show to Tuesdays at 8 P.M. She says now, "I'm not thrilled, but...the truth is, more people will see it at eight, and I don't want to offend that audience. There are a lot of kids, and that could be good for me in my long-range career." Ending on that conciliatory note, Roseanne announced the name of her expected baby: Buck. —Mary Murphy

What Will Sweeping New TV Bill Mean to Viewers?

In what may be the most important TV bill in decades, the House Commerce Committee has voted to broadly deregulate the telecommunications industry. It must still be voted on by the full House and the Senate, and details may change, but at this point both critics and supporters agree that cable companies and broadcast networks are the early winners. Here are some major issues addressed:

■ Cable Rate Deregulation: Within 15 months of passage, cable companies would be allowed to charge market rates for all but the most basic service package. "The cable industry wants deregulation so they can jack up the rates and crush competition," says Bradley Stillman of the Consumer Federation of America. But media analyst Tom Wolzien of Sanford C. Bernstein & Co. thinks any final version of the bill will include protection against unchecked price hikes by cable operators.

■ Telephone Companies: Phone companies will be allowed to compete with cable companies to deliver programming, although some analysts claim widespread competition from the telephone firms is years away. "That competition will bring more innovation and more choice to viewers," says analyst Jay Nelson of Brown Brothers Harriman, "and possible lower prices."

■ Network Takeovers: While broadcast companies are currently limited to owning only 12 broadcast stations, the bill will let them buy enough stations to reach 50 percent of the country. The problem, says White House communications adviser Larry Irving, is that this could limit "independent programming choices" by local affiliates. Bishop Cheen of Paul Kagan Associates disagrees, saying that "deregulation will create more money for more projects and more choices for viewers."

For most viewers, the sticking point is cost. American University professor Christopher Simpson cautions, "There has to be some guarantee that ordinary people... won't be priced out of a nonregulated market." —Mike Hammer, I.R.

TV Buzz

• Doubled Feature: Sources say Stephen King is currently scripting a TV-movie version of his 1980 box-office smash "The Shining" for ABC. Insiders say King was horrified by the Stanley Kubrick feature film starring Jack Nicholson and wants to take his own whack at it.

TV GUIDE ARCHIVES

Jack Nicholson: "H-e-e-ere's Johnny!"

• My So-Called Movie: MTV, which will air reruns of the late lamented ABC series My So-Called Life over the next two years, has talked with the show's producers about making a two-hour wrap-up movie. Most of the cast would like to return, we're told, but will newly minted movie star Claire Danes agree to do it?

• Stroke of Genius: Robert Pastorelli, who played Murphy Brown's housepainter and nanny, Eldin, before his series, Double Rush, came to a screeching halt, is in discussions to return to Candice Bergen's show this fall for what will probably be its final season. Plans call for him to at least appear in the series finale. —Penelope Patsuris, I.R.

A Column About Values and TV

Debating entertainment's content: Keep kids in mind

The response to Bob Dole's broadside against the entertainment industry for producing "nightmares of depravity" was depressingly predictable. Conservatives, whose support Dole was trying to rally, raved. Liberals saw only rank hypocrisy.

Why depressing? Because both sides are so smugly self-assured and so hopelessly shortsighted. Because vicious partisanship has become so reflexive that few seem able to rise above it, even when the issue is the well-being of our children.

In fact, both sides here have a point. Dole's critics have every right to question the moral credentials of a guy poised, for political gain, to repeal the assault-weapons ban he once supported. And funny, isn't it, how he managed to avoid mention of big-time G.O.P. contributor Arnold Schwarzenegger. As Norman Lear had it, short-term profit is politicians' business as much as it is Hollywood's.

BRAD MARKEL/GAMMA LIAISON

But can we simply dismiss the substance of Dole's remarks?

Surely no one who caught Diane Sawyer's recent PrimeTime Live piece on "what it means for young children to grow up in a sex-saturated culture" could. Using hidden cameras and firsthand accounts by child-care professionals, Sawyer laid out how profoundly destructive much of what passes as entertainment is, twisting young people's understanding of human value and dignity.

We saw the effects of exposure to TV commercials, print media, and films on kids as young as 3 and 4. Tiny boys discuss women's bodies with the delicacy of sailors on shore leave. A note written by one second-grader to another reads, "Let's go to a hotel, I want a sex with you." These kids know all about one-night stands and almost nothing about communication or tenderness.

Hearteningly, Dole focused not only on sex but on violence. The distinction long made between the two has itself warped the national dialogue; conservatives are far more affronted by prurience than by blood and guts, and liberals decry violence while defending sex as normal and healthy.

But a child does not perceive with adult eyes. And the truth is, our youth get the worst of both worlds: interminable acts of random violence and equally dehumanizing attitudes about sex.

These are real problems, not merely ideological debating points. (So, for that matter, is the fact that Sawyer's piece was accorded a fraction of the attention given to her chat with Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie.) They cry out to be addressed, without partisanship or the impulse to demonize those who disagree.

At this writing, President Clinton has not commented directly on Dole's views. But based on what he's said in the past, these views are not at all unlike his own. Is it too much to hope for an end to the gridlock over what we demand on our children's behalf? ■

All My Children

Last week (June 12-16), Arlene fantasized about Alec while spying on him in the shower. Opal kicked Palmer out of the house for sleeping with Janet. Kendall and Del's romantic evening was interrupted by bad news from Alice Hart. Laura and Janet struck a deal.

Another World

Spencer communicated to Ryan that Justine is alive; Carl discovered she's been impersonating Rachel, whose life was in danger. Carl was forced to maintain appearances at Donna and Matt's engagement party, where Joe and Paulina got closer.

As the World Turns

Scott determined to keep Sam from marrying Kirk. A disoriented Lily awakened in Malta. Carly manipulated Caleb into a kiss. Rosanna and Mike recaptured their warm friendship. Later, Mike changed the subject when Rosanna asked about his dad.

Bold and the Beautiful

Taylor held a press conference to announce she's alive. Ridge accepted an assignment in China. Macy overheard Anthony's confession to Thorne about killing Ivana. Jessica's mom announced she's on her way to Los Angeles.

All My Children: Olivia Birkelund.

Days of Our Lives

The exorcism threatened Marlena's life. Lucas blackmailed Vivian into helping him stop Carrie and Austin's wedding. Peter found Jennifer and Abby on the island with Jack. Gina finally believed she's Hope.

General Hospital

Monica, Alan and Emily faced Page's death. Tom and Simone talked it out after she let him down easy; but tempers flared between Tom and Justus. Stone insisted he and Robin attend her prom.

Guiding Light

Annie realized Reva's effort to break up her and Josh, which led to a confrontation. Holly and Fletcher plotted how to wed without Roger knowing. Gilly accepted Sid's proposal. Viktor and Dinah made a "ransom" demand.

Loving

Jacob was injured while saving Angie and Frankie from a crazed Carolyn. Danny paid Ally a surprise visit after being released on bail. Jeremy brought disturbing news about Jacob. Steffi clashed with the bodyguard Tess hired.

One Life to Live

Cristian identified Blair's mugger. Todd told Kevin that Viki was to blame for the fire. "Tori" demanded that Dorian find her an arsonist. Blair plotted to build a spa to rival Max and Luna's.

Young and the Restless

Chris wondered if Danny's paternity test was done by the lab where Phyllis once worked. Mamie tried to fill in John's memory of their past. Sharon vowed to keep Matt quiet about her past rather than confess all to Nick.

HITS & MISSES REVIEWS BY TIM HOLLAND

Wildlife concert...Uplifting tale...Where poems hide

Derby (Sat., ABC)—A scrappy young woman's only chance of keeping her late father's debt-ridden horse farm is by placing a promising filly in the Kentucky Derby and winning. Joanne Vannicola is striking in the lead, but she's saddled with a lackluster script that leaves no cliché unturned. Still, she and costar David Charvet manage to ignite a few romantic sparks. My score (0 to 10): 4

John Denver: The Wildlife Concert (Sun., A&E)—This intimate concert, benefiting the Wildlife Conservation Society, kicks off a national tour that should prove a great benefit to Denver's all-but-stalled career. It rekindles nostalgic memories and includes several little-heard songs, such as "Eagles and Horses," that are among his best works. My score: 9

Jupiter's Wife (Wed., MAX) —Documentarian Michel Negroponte follows Maggie, an enigmatic homeless woman given to making outrageous claims (she believes her father was the late actor Robert Ryan and that her husband is the god Jupiter), as she wanders through New York's Central Park. Unfortunately, most of what we learn comes from Negroponte's ponderous narration and not from Maggie's own lips. The story that emerges is somewhat intriguing, but not enough so to sustain a feature-length film. My score: 3

BILL FOLEY/ABC

Down on the farm: Joanne Vannicola and David Charvet.

Past the Bleachers (Thur., ABC)—Richard Dean Anderson and Glynnis O'Connor star as parents quietly grieving over the loss of their 11-year-old son to a devastating illness. The father agrees to coach his son's former baseball team, where he meets Lucky, a mute boy with his own need for healing. You can pretty much guess the rest, but the film's predictability doesn't derail it; Anderson and O'Connor won't let it. They lift this simple, sentimental story to elegant heights. My score: 8

The Language of Life with Bill Moyers (Fri., PBS)—"Poems hide in the bottoms of our shoes," Naomi Shihab Nye says in one of her poems. "What we have to do is live in a way that lets us find them." A good place to begin the search is Bill Moyers' insightful eight-part series exploring the renaissance of public poetry readings in America. In this two-part introduction, Moyers interviews Nye, along with poets Sekou Sundiata and Coleman Barks. It's an enlightening journey, rich in the love of language, and it celebrates the diversity of the human experience while capturing the shared emotions of the heart. My score: 8

HOT SUMMER RERUNS
Mike tries to help a disfigured man branded by the locals as a "monster" on Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman (Sat., CBS); Dr. Greene is deeply affected by a terminally ill cancer patient on ER (Thur., NBC).

NEXT WEEK IN TV GUIDE

A young woman takes a long shot in "Derby"

BY KRISTIN GALLAGHER

A parents' guide to noteworthy programming for youngsters. Programs especially suitable for preschoolers are marked•

It's a special time of year for dads, and plenty of them figure into this week's programming. First out of the gate is the latest ABC Family Movie, 1995's made-for-TV drama "Derby" (Sat., 9 P.M. [ET]). Joanne Vannicola stars as Kate Woods, a willful 21-year-old who returns to her adoptive father's horse farm resentful at having been sent off to school for six years. Her conflicts with her father remain unresolved when he dies, leaving her with the reins to the financially strapped business. Kate's ready to sell it off and get on with her life when she's persuaded to bet the farm, if need be, to pursue her dad's dream of winning the Kentucky Derby. Baywatch's David Charvet costars as Kate's childhood love, a horse trainer whose faith in her abilities as a horsewoman and a businesswoman help put her on the right track. "Derby" is an entertaining—if somewhat predictable—ride that finishes strong thanks to a likable supporting cast and footage of spectacular-looking horses.

Bill Foley/ABC

Joanne Vannicola is off to the races in "Derby."

Other fatherhood specials can be found on cable this week. They include the Cartoon Network's four-hour bow to the Greatest Toon Dads Ever, including Fred Flintstone and George Jetson (Sun., 12 noon); Nickelodeon's encore airing of U to U: Letters to Mom and Dad, featuring appreciative young ones sending "video letters" to their parents (Sat., 5:30 P.M.); and TBS's salute to TV's Best Dads, a six-hour dad-a-thon made up of episodes of such favorite family shows as Happy Days and Little House on the Prairie (Sun., 9:05 A.M.).

Of note Tuesday on ABC is a tribute to the music of composer Alan Menken, combined with a sneak peek at the upcoming feature "Pocahontas," that forms Disney's Pocahontas . . . The Musical Tradition Continues. The rich relationship between Disney's spectacular animation and Menken's Oscar-winning tunes is illustrated through film clips and performances from "Aladdin" and "Beauty and the Beast" by recording artists like Peabo Bryson.

'Toon into the Cartoon Network on Sunday at 7 P.M. as "Shake and Flick" make their debut on the latest installment of World Premiere Toons. The frenetic short (which precedes Mr. Spim's Cartoon Theatre) tracks the adventures of a tenacious tick that loves to get under the skin of a frazzled dog named Shake.

What do seashells, dogs' teeth and dead rats have in common? They were all used as forms of currency at various points in history, according to Money Made Easy: The ABC Kids' Guide to Dollars and Sense (Sat., 12:30 P.M.). Originally shown last year, this worthwhile two-part program explains our monetary system using kid-friendly terms. This week's educational installment checks out the history of modern currency.

Grins (and grimaces) for 'Candid Pamela'

Great going, guys and gals. With this week's cover story on Pamela Anderson ["Candid Pamela," May 27], you actually motivated my husband to pick up something other than the remote control. Congratulations!

Judy Smith
Caryville, Tenn.

This issue of TV GUIDE should have been entitled "Babeland." Being forced to look at Pamela Anderson's perfect tan, blond hair, and bathing-suited body every time I wanted to see what was on in prime time was rather unbearable.

Kristen L.A.
St. Louis

I found your article a waste of good trees. Does anyone, other than hormonally charged boys, really care about her life? Also, I have never seen a man on the cover of TV GUIDE in a Speedo. I would recommend Costas Mandylor.

Leslie M. Weidner
Portage, Mich.

I just read your article, and I'm fuming. I wish the tabloids would leave Ms. Anderson and her husband, Tommy, alone. Why not take a wild chance? You are only young once.

Pamela Windham
Arvonia, Va.

So a proverbial blonde bombshell finds "deep, true love" with a proverbial tattooed, bad-boy rocker. Yeesh—talk about your summer reruns...

James Bateson
Monrovia, Cal.

Ms. Anderson describes herself as "the most drugless person I know," then goes on to relate that she and her husband "go through a lot of champagne." Alcohol

Saturday GUIDELINES

☐ U.S. Open Golf: The tournament makes its NBC debut with coverage of all 18 holes of the third round from Shinnecock Hills in Southampton, N.Y. See the Close-up on p. 79. —12:30 PM 4 30

☐ Baseball: The Yankees visit the Cleveland Indians. —1 PM 11

☐ Fox's NHL coverage goes prime time as the Eastern and Western Conference winners face off in a game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup Championship. —8 PM 5 61

☐ Movie: Eddie Murphy's string of box-office flops continued with 1994's "Beverly Hills Cop III," a lackluster ★★ outing that once again finds the streetwise Detroit cop in L.A. Most of the humor is forced and familiar, although there are some laughs involving a very Disney-like theme park and its avuncular creator, Uncle Dave (Alan Young). —8 PM HBO

☐ Movie: Joanne Vannicola does an engaging turn as a feisty young woman who goes to great lengths to realize her adoptive father's dream of entering a horse in the Kentucky "Derby," a nicely paced 1995 made-for-TV drama. —9 PM 7 8

☐ Movie: Zalman King directed 1995's "Delta of Venus," an erotic made-for cable drama that plays like an expanded episode of his steamy series Red Shoe Diaries. Based on a novel by Anais Nin. —9:40 PM SHO

☐ Boxing: Former heavyweight champ Riddick Bowe's next opponent in his quest for another title shot is Cuba's Jorge Luis Gonzalez. —10 PM HBO

Shinnecock Hills clubhouse

Shinnecock Hills in Southampton, N.Y., hosts the centennial national championship. (Live)

Shinnecock is one of the country's finest, and oldest, courses. Designed to resemble a British links-style course because of its seaside location on Long Island, the original 12-hole layout was built in 1891. It was expanded to 18 holes in 1896 to accommodate the second U.S. Open, was redesigned in 1931, and has remained virtually unchanged since.

In 1986, in the only other Open here, Raymond Floyd was the lone player to finish under par.

sedates the central nervous system and is indeed considered a drug.

Cathryn Brown
Burr Ridge, Ill.

Just because a woman is attractive and well built doesn't mean her life should be an open book. Who cares if Pamela Anderson had breast surgery? And asking about her size! That was really overstepping the bounds of good taste.

Marcy Stevick
Wellsburg, W.V.

Ms. Anderson says: "I had [breast] implants. But so has every single person in Los Angeles." Speak for yourself, silicone sister! It's the women who migrate to L.A. (trying to become movie stars) who seem to get implants. California natives, such as myself, look good naturally.

Suzy Campbell
Los Angeles

Your issue featuring Pamela Anderson, Jane Fonda, and supermodel workout videos should have been presented as a "Special Sci-Fi Edition" featuring synthetic life-forms. Some of these women have had so much work done that they barely qualify as human beings.

Doug Larsen
Minneapolis

Chowin' down with the role models

It amazes me that TV GUIDE would extol the "entertainment value" of watching a 6-foot woman work out to maintain a scant 125 pounds ["Sweatin' with the Supermodels," May 27]. I am 5' 8", 142 pounds—fat, compared to that standard. Yet I look good, feel good, and turn plenty of heads. I hope some teenage girl struggling with her self-image looks up to someone like me first!

Cindy Thayer

With Frank still on the lam and Ivy feeling a lack of gender equality on the set, George (Ken Finkelman) decides to hire actors to play the couple, in what he considers "a dramatization of a simualtion of reality."

Sunday GUIDELINES

☐ Long Island's Shinnecock Hills hosts final-round play in golf's prestigious U.S. Open. Ray Floyd won the last Open played at Shinnecock, in 1986. See the Close-up on p. 79. —12:30 PM (4) (30)

☐ It may be Father's Day, but John Denver: The Wildlife Concert pays tribute to those who tend to Mother Earth as it marks the centennial of the Wildlife Conservation Society. See the Close-up on p. 89. —8 PM, 12 mid. [Early Mon.] (A&E)

☐ Movie: In the 1995 TV-drama "Big Dreams & Broken Hearts: The Dottie West Story," Michele Lee gets to sing and act in a serious role as the beloved yet troubled country entertainer. —9 PM (2) (3)

☐ Movie: "In the Line of Duty: The Price of Vengeance," a teleplay from 1994, marked the third time Michael Gross appeared in this series of TV-docudramas. He first played an FBI agent, then a killer. This time he's on the right side of the law again as an L.A. cop up against a crazed gangster (Brent Jennings). —9 PM (4) (30)

☐ Movie: Charming performances by Raquel Welch and Jack Scalia spark the 1993 TV-movie "Judith Krantz's 'Torch Song'," an otherwise lightweight romance about a fading movie star and a firefighter who meet while in rehab for alcoholism. —9 PM (7)

☐ National Geographic Explorer celebrates the Society's still photography by following six photographers as they "make" (pros rarely "take") pictures for National Geographic magazine. The photos are pretty, poignant and provocative. —9 PM (TBS)

John Denver performing in 1990

John Denver salutes the Wildlife Conservation Society centennial in a 21-song concert that blends old favorites and new material.

"I hope that it brings back my music to a lot of people . . . [and] they remember why they enjoyed my songs," Denver says. "I know that my music affected a lot of people in the world, and I know that a lot of them have forgotten." The concert is also an opportunity for fans to sample songs from his more recent albums, which he says "really didn't get out there," but which he believes contain some of his best work.

Selections include "Take Me Home, Country Roads," "Eagles and Horses," "A Song for Lovers" and "Rocky Mountain High." (2:00)

Monday GUIDELINES

☐ Baseball: The Baltimore Orioles host the New York Yankees. —7:30 PM (MSG)

☐ Baseball: A ten-game Philadelphia Phillies road trip continues as they visit the New York Mets. —7:30 PM (SC)

☐ Barney Miller alum Steve Landesberg exchanges his badge for a briefcase in Best Defense, an unsold sitcom pilot about a public defender that costars Scott Valentine (Family Ties). —8 PM (7) (8)

☐ Star Trek: Deep Space Nine offers up an intriguing season finale: what happens when a starship is hijacked by an alien who can assume any shape? One possibility: rampant paranoia. See the Close-up on p. 108. —8 PM (11)

☐ Biography conducts a weeklong tribute to "Music Giants," with Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1756-91) in the first chair. The profile looks at the genius behind the music and the sources of his inspiration. —8 PM, 12 mid. [Early Tues.] (A&E)

☐ Movie: Tom Selleck plays "An Innocent Man" in this standard-issue ★★ 1989 prison melodrama about justice miscarried. —8:30 PM (7) (8)

☐ Movie: "Moment of Truth: Cradle of Conspiracy" is a well-intentioned but ultimately disappointing 1994 TV-docudrama about an elaborate baby-brokering scheme. Danica McKellar plays the teen who gets pregnant by a fiendish drifter. —9 PM (4)

☐ On an engaging Platypus Man repeat, Susan Seaforth Hayes guest stars as the glamorous mother of Richard's former fiancée. —9:30 PM (9) (20)

STAR TREK: DEEP SPACE NINE (CC)
8 PM 11

Robbie Robinson
Avery Brooks

The third season ends with a startling revelation. Imagine an adversary who can become anyone or anything. That's the problem facing newly promoted Capt. Sisko when he pilots the Defiant on a mission to protect Federation outposts. It turns out that the Federation Ambassador aboard—and the SOS that prompted the Defiant's sortie—are part of a Dominion plot to incite war in the Alpha Quadrant. Now Sisko must identify an enemy who could be the person next to him—or even the ladder he's climbing. Sisko: Avery Brooks. Odo: Rene Auberjonois. Krajensky: Lawrence Pressman. Dr. Bashir: Siddig El Fadil. O'Brien: Colm Meaney. Dax: Terry Farrell. (1:00)

Little "Amelia" tenderly holds her best friend "Cinnamon" and wonders, what shall we do today?

Known for her highly realistic and expressive collector dolls, gifted doll artist Virginia Ehrlich Turner once again showcases her skills with "Amelia." Astonishingly beautiful blue eyes light up a sweet face framed by strawberry curls, and her lavishly detailed dress embodies all the elegance and romance of the Victorian era.

Expertly crafted of fine, bisque porcelain and hand-painted in the softest hues, "Amelia" is available exclusively from The Hamilton Collection for only $95. She is hand-numbered and accompanied by a same-numbered Certificate of Authenticity. Her best friend, "Cinnamon," attired in a cream-colored lace vest, will accompany his pretty mistress. As always, our 30 Day 100% Buy-Back Guarantee assures you order at no risk. Submit your reservation for this precious pair today!

*Plus $2.75 shipping and handling per figurine. 6% state sales tax will be charged on all orders shipped to Florida. All applications must be signed and are subject to acceptance.

Bursting with irresistible charm and personality, the award-winning Cherished Teddies® Collection from Enesco has won the hearts of collectors all over the country. Now, The Hamilton Collection is proud to present the Monthly Friends to Cherish Figurine Collection, featuring twelve irresistible teddy bears ... one to help you celebrate each month of the year.

To capture all of their heartwarming appeal, each resin figurine has been crafted with the utmost care and precision, and skillfully painted by hand in soft pastel colors. The level of detail is astonishing! Just look at "Seth," carrying his books and an apple for the teacher ... "Alan" has his umbrella up, ready for a spring shower ... there's "Denise" all ready for Christmas ... and "June" with all her pretty flowers! Adorably costumed — complete with appropriate "props" — each teddy is delightfully unique. This "unbearably" cute collection will keep you smiling all year 'round.

As a subscriber of the Monthly Friends to Cherish Figurine Collection, you will receive one figurine each month, twelve cuddly teddies in all. You will also receive (at no additional charge) a wooden display for your collection. You and your family will happily welcome each new arrival.

"It's Raining, It's Pouring ..."

"Alan" has his umbrella up, ready for a spring shower ...

Painstakingly crafted and very attractively priced, this collection promises to be extremely popular with new and seasoned collectors alike. Our 30 Day 100% Buy-Back Guarantee assures your complete satisfaction, so send in your subscription application today!

Tuesday GUIDELINES

☐ The unsinkable Debbie Reynolds appears on a Wings repeat as Helen and Casey's mom, who visits to give a financial boost to Helen and Joe's wedding. The gift makes Helen feel as if she's no longer playing second fiddle to her sister. —8 PM 4

☐ Hello, Louis! An entertaining BBC Biography trumpets the jazz genius of Louis Armstrong, who possessed "a talent so enormous that many consider it to be the foundation of American popular music." The film is sharply paced with tidbits from other jazz legends. —8 PM, 12 mid. [Early Wed.] A&E

☐ Fans of glitzy Las Vegas-style song-and-dance shows should appreciate Barbara Mandrell: Steppin' Out! It's the singer's first performance at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry in 13 years. —8 PM TNN

☐ Disney's Pocahontas: The Musical Tradition Continues celebrates the work of composer Alan Menken, who scored the new release "Pocahontas" as well as "The Little Mermaid," "Beauty and the Beast" and "Aladdin." —8:30 PM 7 8

☐ The personal life and independent spirit of Diane Starin, who has been blind since infancy, is examined in "Out of Sight," a frank and intriguing installment of P.O.V. —10 PM 13 49

☐ A Cronkite Report on America's "war on drugs" finds "horror stories" in prisons and success stories in treatment centers. So what to do? Host Walter Cronkite suggests "less enforcement of unenforceable laws" and more emphasis on prevention and treatment. —10 PM DSC

TV GUIDE'S MOVIE RATINGS

For our readers' guidance, TV GUIDE rates movies excellent (★★★★), good (★★★), fair (★★) or poor (★). Our evaluations are based on a number of factors, including a consensus of leading critics, quality of cast and director, awards earned and box-office performance. TV GUIDE does not evaluate movies (signified by an absence of symbols) if a rating might be premature (example: an unscreened TV-movie) or pointless (example: a formula B-Western), or if too few facts are known (example: a minor foreign film). Movies may be edited for television; our ratings are based on the original, complete film.

JUPITER'S WIFE

Cinemax

An intriguing documentary probing the history of a homeless woman living in Central Park.

Fiercely independent and eccentric, Maggie Cogan (pictured) claims that she's related to several ancient Greek deities—and the late actor Robert Ryan. But as documentarian Michel Negroponte records her daily activities, he also begins to decode her bizarre statements, discovering the real identities of her relatives. Negroponte also chronicles Cogan's brief brush with notoriety as one of Manhattan's first female horse-drawn carriage drivers, which led to her appearances in a 1967 newsreel and on the game show What's My Line? (1:20)

Thursday GUIDELINES

☐ On an amusing Martin repeat, Pam and Gina think they're shoo-ins for acceptance into a snooty women's club, especially when they get a load of their competition—the less-than-classy Sheneneh (female alter ego of series star Martin Lawrence) and her friend Laquita. —8 PM 5 61

☐ Movie: A moving performance by Richard Dean Anderson and some tender moments distinguish "Past the Bleachers," a curious mixture of sentiment and mystery melded into a 1995 TV-movie about a man coming to terms with his son's death. The supporting cast features Glynnis O'Connor, Ken Jenkins (Homefront) and the ever-reliable Barnard Hughes. See the Close-up on p. 167. —8 PM 7 8

☐ Last year's VH1 Honors drew one of the largest viewing audiences in the cable network's 10-year history, and the second annual event promises to be equally popular with a stellar lineup that includes Whitney Houston, Bette Midler, Annie Lennox. See the Close-up on p. 169. —8 PM, 11 PM VH1

☐ Comedienne Elayne Boosler plays a wisecracking surgeon on a repeat of Living Single. —8:30 PM 5 61

☐ Seinfeld repeats the fanciful episode in which Kramer's mother (Sheree North) reveals his first name, ending an age-old mystery. —9 PM 4 30

☐ A Valentine's Day repeat brings an odd mix of patients to the ER, ranging from a dog to a trio of cheerleaders who've eaten candy laced with LSD. "It's like the full moon," Greene says, "all the crazy cases show up." —10 PM 4 30

PAST THE BLEACHERS

Virginia Sherwood/ABC

Richard Dean Anderson and Barnard Hughes

Richard Dean Anderson successfully trades his action-adventure persona for an introspective role in this somewhat contrived 1995 TV-movie. It's a sentimental tale that casts Anderson as Bill Parish, a man haunted by the death of his son. Parish agrees to coach a youth baseball team with the help of a lonely widower (Barnard Hughes), and is drawn to the team's star (Grayson Fricke). The boy, who reminds Parish of his son, is mute and mysterious—facts that bring Parish out of his grief and into a search for the lad's true identity. Harper: Glynnis O' Connor. (2:00)

HERE'S HOW YOUR CLUB WORKS:

Start with our 6-1-2 Formula to introduce you to the Club...and to your savings!

CHOOSE THE MUSIC YOU LOVE.

- Pick 6 FREE CDs or cassettes right now from the many great choices in this ad.
- Buy just 1 selection at the regular Club price (currently $14.98 to $16.98 for CDs; $8.98 to $10.98 for cassettes) within a year.
- Then choose 2 more FREE. That's 9 for the price of 1 (plus shipping and handling for each selection) with nothing more to buy, ever!

LISTEN WITH NO RISK.

You may take 10 days to listen to your introductory selections and look over the accompanying terms of Club membership.

- If you're not completely satisfied, simply return your selections at our expense—with no further obligation.

SHOP FROM THE COMFORT OF HOME.

Discover how convenient it is to shop with BMG Music Service.

- You'll get our exclusive Club Catalog about every three weeks (19 shopping opportunities a year), filled with hundreds of choices in a variety of music categories, plus music news, artist interviews and recommendations from our experts.
- So easy! Every issue offers a Featured Selection in your preferred music category. If you want the Featured Selection, don't do a thing—you'll receive it automatically.
- Your choice! If you want other hits from the Catalog — or none at all — just return the Notification Card provided by the specified date. You'll have at least 10 days to decide.
- No pressure! If you should have fewer than 10 days to reply and receive an unwanted Featured Selection, simply return it at our expense.

SAVE AGAIN AND AGAIN.

From day one, for every selection you buy at the regular Club price, you may choose another of equal or lesser value at 50% off. But that's not all.

- The longer you remain a BMG Music Service member, the more you save — up to 50%, 60%, even 70% — with our special sales and discounts.

We're sure you'll enjoy your exclusive Club benefits. But if you ever want to cancel, just write and tell us. It's your choice anytime—after you buy your one regular-Club-price selection. Why wait? Join BMG Music Service now and start saving.

VH1 HONORS
8 PM, 11 PM (VH1)

Frank Micelotta

Boyz II Men (pictured), Vince Gill, Whitney Houston, Annie Lennox, Bette Midler and the Red Hot Organization are honored for their philanthropic endeavors in the second annual gala. According to executive producer Ken Ehrlich, the ceremony gives the honorees the opportunity to perform individually and together, and allows the artists to "go a little far afield" with their musical selections. Lennox, for example, is slated to sing Procol Harum's "A Whiter Shade of Pale." The presentation is also designed to raise public awareness of the artists' favorite causes. Greg Kinnear hosts in Los Angeles. (Live)

Tim Ryan, each of whom talk about relatives who've been afflicted with Alzheimer's.

Friday GUIDELINES

☐ "Even my best friends don't know who I am," songwriter Harry Warren jokingly used to say. Despite his low profile, Warren was one of Tin Pan Alley's most prolific hitmasters, and some of his classics—like "42nd Street" and "Lullaby of Broadway"—are recalled in Michael Feinstein: Sing a Song of Hollywood. Feinstein also reminisces about working with the composer in the early 1980s. —8 PM, 11:30 PM (AMC)

☐ Movie: Fans of Robin Williams' frantic comic work might be put off by his subdued performances in the pensive 1994 fantasy "Being Human" ★★. Set in five different historical periods, the film attempts to show certain common threads in everyday life, via Williams' series of five nebbishy characters. —8 PM (MAX)

☐ The Language of Life with Bill Moyers: "We tend to think of [poetry] as something reserved to the ivory tower," says Moyers in this enlightening eight-part series about the "renaissance" of American verse. "It's not. Poetry is something that all of us appreciate, even if we don't understand it." Filmed last year at New Jersey's Geraldine R. Dodge Poetry Festival, the episodes profile 18 diverse poets, including "performance poet" Sekou Sundiata. See the Close-up on p. 189. —9 PM (13)

☐ Songwriter Paul Williams appears on a chilling Picket Fences outing that marked last Halloween with a story about witches. —10 PM (2) (3)

☐ Homicide: Life on the Street repeats the series' well-scripted third-season opener that introduced Isabella Hofmann as the no-nonsense Lt. Megan Russert. —10 PM (4) (30)

LANGUAGE OF LIFE WITH BILL MOYERS (CC)
9 PM (13)

Moyers, Naomi Shihab Nye, Sekou Sundiata

Debut: Bill Moyers hosts an eight-part study of the resurgent popularity of poetry in America. "They have come to celebrate language," says Moyers of the 18 poets profiled in this series, filmed at the Geraldine R. Dodge Poetry Festival. The opener features Sekou Sundiata and Naomi Shihab Nye, whose words were partly responsible for the series' realization. While recuperating from bypass surgery, Moyers decided to undertake the series after being inspired by Nye's work. "When I hear some of these poems," says Moyers, "I say 'That's exactly how I feel'. And there's a kinship that takes place that I hope people will feel when they watch this series." (1:00)

"Let the Little Children Come to Me"

A breathtaking portrait of Jesus Christ, inspired by His words; crafted as a fine porcelain collectible.

Affordably priced at only 4 payments of $32.49*

That's Ashton-Drake value!

Unconditionally guaranteed for one full year, or your money back (plus postage)!

Never before has the life of Christ been so realistically depicted, or so reverently presented by Ashton-Drake. "Let the Little Children Come to Me" comes with all three porcelain dolls shown here.

The Bible is filled with vivid images of Jesus Christ, depicting His life, His teaching, His sacrificial love for mankind. Perhaps no image is more comforting than that of the gentle Savior with little children. In the midst of crowds who flocked to Him for solace and healing, Jesus always made time for the children brought to Him.

Sculpted with the remarkable detailing that makes Titus Tomescu one of today's most acclaimed and respected artists, "Let the Little Children Come to Me" is a set of three porcelain dolls created specifically to be posed together to portray this beloved image from the New Testament. Authentic costuming, fine sculpting, and delicate hand-painting of each face creates an aura of love between Jesus and the children that is unmistakable.

Created in an edition that will end forever in 1995, this fine inspiring collectible can be yours at the issue price by sending in the attached Reservation Certificate. Don't delay; order now.

Titus Tomescu The Artist

The incredible sculpting details in this issue, including lifelike hands and separated toes through which the leather sandals are woven, is typical of the talent of Mr. Tomescu. His work in porcelain is well-respected among doll makers and collectors alike, and he earned the coveted "Doll of the Year" award for the very first doll he created for Ashton-Drake.

TV GUIDE'S MOVIE RATINGS

For our readers' guidance, TV GUIDE rates movies excellent (★★★★), good (★★★), fair (★★) or poor (★). Our evaluations are based on a number of factors, including a consensus of leading critics, quality of cast and director, awards earned and box-office performance. TV GUIDE does not evaluate movies (signified by an absence of symbols) if it might be premature (example: an unscreened TV-movie) or pointless (example: a formula B-Western), or if the criteria can't be applied because too few facts are known (example: a minor foreign film). Movies may be edited for television; our ratings are based on the original, complete film.

PARENTAL GUIDANCE

The official MPAA content rating (G, PG, PG-13, R or NC-17) is provided for every film that has received one (NR: not rated). We also offer advisories about content (adult themes, sexual situations, strong language, violence, nudity or partial nudity), but parents should be aware that films containing adult themes or sexual situations frequently involve nudity, even though our advisory may not explicitly say so.

Horoscope

By Patric Walker

ARIES (March 21-April 20): Relationship difficulties are wreaking havoc with your nerves. Bide your time and refuse to get involved in any more silly disagreements. Mars at odds with Venus on Wednesday is sure to put loved ones in an aggressive mood, but you'll only make matters worse if you reciprocate their anger.

For your extended Aries horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3152*

TAURUS (April 21-May 21): Your ruling planet Venus, passing through the area of your solar chart related to money matters, is adversely affected by Mars in Virgo—meaning you can't afford to take a gamble. What transpires over the next few days will make you realize that loved ones are not as trustworthy as you were led to believe.

For your extended Taurus horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3153*

GEMINI (May 22-June 21): Don't bother kicking up a fuss; Mars at odds with Venus shows that others are simply not in the mood to listen. Take care of your material needs, because no one else will do it for you. Remember: money speaks a language everyone understands.

For your extended Gemini horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3154*

CANCER (June 22-July 23): The Sun enters your birth sign on Wednesday, which means nothing can dampen your enthusiasm. Even so, a colleague appears to have taken liberties recently. Put him in his place so you can focus on more important things.

For your extended Cancer horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3155*

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23): Don't expect to enjoy your usual drive and energy once the Sun enters Cancer on Wednesday. Think about cutting back on everyday commitments and getting in touch with the deepest levels of your subconscious mind—listen to that still, small voice within.

For your extended Leo horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3156*

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23): The Virgoan attributes of caring and compassion will be put to the test this week, but in an unlikely fashion. You have nothing to fear from others, but be aware of your own self-critical nature. Unless you accept your virtues, you could be overwhelmed by imaginary faults.

For your extended Virgo horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3157*

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23): Refuse to be sidetracked by those who do not share your vision or values. Others may think you are setting impossible goals, but only because they expect so little of themselves.

For your extended Libra horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3158*

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22): Don't rock the boat over finances until well after the Sun changes signs on Wednesday. Even then, you may decide that debates over "small change" simply aren't worth the effort. Pay the price others are demanding, but only if you buy your freedom in return.

For your extended Scorpio horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3159*

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): A promise made is a debt unpaid, and you seem to have quite a few bills. However, a marvelous conjunction in your opposite sign of Gemini means loved ones are in forgiving moods. You can get yourself off the hook by simply being honest.

For your extended Sagittarius horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3160*

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): For some time now, you appear to have been locked in a battle of wits on the work front, to the detriment of more vital matters. If you think back to the time of your last birthday, you will realize that you won't find meaning in your career until you cultivate personal relationships.

For your extended Capricorn horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3161*

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): It's time to focus your energy on practical issues. The Sun in Cancer over the next month will not allow you to get away with vague promises. Partners and associates need to be convinced that you know what you are talking about.

For your extended Aquarius horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3150*

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): The situation at home has been rather tense in recent weeks, and you've been reluctant to speak your mind. However, a new planetary setup signifies that you are about to have a chance to clear the air. Loved ones will accept your criticisms if you wrap them in compliments.

For your extended Pisces horoscope, call: 1-900-454-3151*

Our Motto Isn't Safety First. It's Safety For Everyone.

No one cares more about safety than we do. That's why we include a comprehensive safety package on our most affordable Chevrolet. For the front passengers, the new Cavalier comes standard with dual air bags.† For rear, child-resistant door locks. And for everyone who drives or rides in a Cavalier, standard anti-lock brakes, a rugged steel safety cage, even a patented chassis design that helps divert energy away from the passenger compartment in case of a frontal collision. Perhaps most importantly, we do all that on a car that starts at just $10,750* including destination charge. That's what makes the new Cavalier a Genuine Chevrolet.
